Board of Curators

Twice annually a group of intelligent, distinguished people come from all parts of the country to discuss various administrative policies related to the success of Stephens College and to take such official action as may be necessary. They constitute the Stephens College Board of Curators.

Among their many duties are the approval of all college purchases of real estate and the approval of staff appointments. Since Stephens College does not operate for profit, it is the duty of the Board to hold in trust all college property.

Since the Board is self-perpetuating, each year new members are elected or old members are re-elected as their terms expire.

Mr. Hugh Stephens, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Exchange National Bank of Jefferson City, Missouri, is the chairman of the Stephens Board of Curators. Mr. J. D. Elliff, vice-president of the Board, is a Professor Emeritus at the University of Missouri. Mr. Frank W. Dearing handles the various duties of the secretary of the Board. Other members of the Board include: Mr. W. M. Fitch, attorney at law; Mr. J. P. Hetzler, retired merchant; Mr. G. W. Humphrey, attorney at law; Mrs. E. S. Pillsbury of St. Louis; Mr. R. L. Smith, master farmer; Mr. G. Ellsworth Huggins, manufacturer; Mr. James R. Angell, public service counselor of N. B. C.; Mrs. H. A. Brinkman of Hinsdale, Illinois; Mr. John A. Robinson, banker; Dr. Alvin C. Eurich, vice-president of Leland Stanford University; Mr. Ben D. Wood, director of Bureau of Collegiate Educational Research at Columbia University; Mr. Robert L. Sutherland, director of the Hogg Foundation in Austin, Texas; Mrs. Hortense Odlum, president of the Bonwit Teller, Incorporated; Miss Prudence Cutright, assistant superintendent of schools at Minneapolis, Minnesota; and Dr. J. L. Morrill, newest member of the Board, who this year was appointed to the presidency of the University of Minnesota.

Comptroller

Behind the scenes of campus life throughout the year, there is a business staff working constantly. Huge ledgers have to be kept. The dining rooms must run smoothly so that every "Susie" can have her meals on time. The routines of the student bank and book store take endless time. The business staff responsible for this work includes:

W. W. CHARTERS

A significant letter came in the mails today from a Stephens mother. It says: "My husband and I are deeply grateful that our daughter who lived under Nazism for seven years can attend Stephens while such a tragic war is going on. She appreciates her privileges as an American in America. I hope that every Stephens woman comprehends to some extent, at least, the great blessings which she possesses."

Our blessings are gifts from a long line of capable ancestors who worked with sincerity and intelligence to bequeath substantial treasures to their descendents. Their most notable gifts are not financial; they are the moral and social values and customs which together constitute the American way of life. These they gained through "blood, sweat, toil, and tears."

Gifts by ancestral donors demand the intelligent responsibility of the recipient to maintain and improve them. She who accepts gifts without a commitment to improve them is a parasite who accepts all and gives nothing.

If Stephens women achieve the aspirations of their alma mater they will be known in their spheres of life as participants in all movements to maintain the heritage of the youth of America. They will watch the efficiency of democratic processes; they will cooperate with their neighbors in improving the methods by which American ideals are realized. They will forever remember that every individual is a person of worth who must be given a democratic opportunity to develop the best of which he is capable, be the amount great or small. They will vote; they will drive for better things; they will cooperate; and they will enjoy the life which they will help to build. Stephens women should be nobly characterized as those who give more than they have received.

Dietary Department

MISS ZOE HARRIS

A well-trained dietary staff is responsible for the planning and preparation of the meals at Stephens. In preparing the menus for each week, Miss Zoe Harris, head dietician, and her assistants attempt to have nutritionally balanced meals and to give the girls what they like. All of the numerous dining rooms on the campus have exactly the same menu each day. Although the food supply is very much restricted in variety and quantity because of war-time conditions, meals at Stephens are suited to the tastes and needs of the average student.

One new experience which many girls encounter soon after their arrival in September is the experience of "dieting scientifically" at special tables in each dining hall under the supervision of the health department.

Administrative Officers

W. P. SHOFSTALL

At Stephens College students are important. This importance shows itself in many ways:

1. In the way classes are conducted. Teachers know students as individuals.
2. In the extra-class facilities. Clinics of many kinds are available. The extra-class program allows for the participation of any interested student in a great variety of activities.
3. In faculty-student relations—a friend-to-friend relationship rather than the relationship of the mighty and the weak.
4. In the philosophy underlying the curriculum, which is built in terms of student needs.

In these four ways, Stephens—through actions as well as words—states its belief in the importance of the students, and back of this conviction is another even more significant assumption. This assumption is that the essence of a democracy is respect for the individual. Stephens College believes that respect for the individual student must be shown in the conduct of classes, the opportunities of the extra-class program, faculty-student attitudes, and the curriculum. If it is to prepare citizens for the democracy of tomorrow, this philosophy must be maintained.

B. LAMAR JOHNSON

As each graduating Senior leaves Stephens she will take with her a number of tangibles gained during her years at college—a diploma, a Stephensophia, a group of favorite books, and perhaps pennants, photographs, a class ring, and other mementos. Much more important, however, than her tangible possessions are the intangibles which the graduate takes with her: attitudes, habits, knowledge, skills, interests, insights, traits of character. These unseen possessions are indeed the foundation upon which her life and happiness and her contribution to society will be built.

During the years that lie immediately ahead, leadership of the type that the Stephens woman can give will be particularly needed in the home, in the church, in the community—and in the nation as a whole.

It is my hope that, as each graduating senior leaves the campus this spring, she will be conscious of those “intangible possessions” as the most important acquisitions of her college years. Such possessions will constitute her major capital for useful living.

Public Relations Division

MR. ROBERT BIRD

Keeping "the folks back home" informed about Stephens is the job handled by the Public Relations department, now in its seventh year of service on campus. Its responsibilities vary from publicizing new courses, of which the aviation program, featured in a summer issue of Colliers' is an example, to campus projects, such as the radio conference in November.

A special service of the division this year was supplying speakers to campus groups. Among these were well-known editors, newspaper and magazine writers. These guests were entertained by student committees who showed them a cross-section of Stephens life.

In the excitement of holidays and packing, girls often forget that it is through this department that the airplane, train, and bus reservations are made both at Christmas and Spring vacation time. The faculty too depends on its services in this respect. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Bird, this hard-working organization puts emphasis on the activities and accomplishments of individual students. News material and pictures of these activities are sent to the girls' home-town newspapers.

Special credit goes to Mr. Townsend Godsey, the man behind the camera, who has produced numerous photographic illustrations for feature articles in newspapers and magazines and for the campus publications. Mr. Godsey, in addition to serving the Public Relations Division as photographer, is director of the campus photo service.

Extra-Class Division

DR. MERLE PRUNTY

The organizations of the Extra-Class division is administered through the Student Civic Association, of which every Stephens girl is automatically a member. Civic Association operates under a grant of power from President Wood. In this way the Legislature of Civic Association is given executive and legislative authority over the non-academic activities of the College.

The activities of Civic Association are carried out by the following divisions: Student Activity Board; Pan-Hellenic Council; the Independents; Board of Publications; Campus Service Board; Council of Class Officers; War-Peace Organization; and Student Recreation Association. The affairs of this huge organization, therefore, become the concern and responsibility of all students on campus.

Each year the Legislature makes rules to cover all campus problems in order that through a democratic form of self-government, it may efficiently control all matters relating to individual conduct.

This division of the college program provides a testing ground for Stephens girls to show initiative and leadership ability. By participating in the well-organized life on campus, the students profit greatly through the cooperative experience of group living.

Dr. Merle Prunty, faculty director of this division, believes that extra-class activities should offer to students an educational experience that involves correct social behavior and cooperative living.

It is his belief that all the girls should have some type of definite responsibility and learn to carry it creditably in order to prepare themselves for responsibilities in later life.

MR. HARVEY S. WALTER

Admissions

An admissions counselor is often the first member of the Stephens "family" whom a prospective Stephens Susie meets. In order that he may get to know each girl's personality and anticipate her needs at Stephens, an admissions counselor (or "field man") visits each girl's home and confers informally with her and her parents, and with faculty members at her high school.

After her arrival on campus, each girl may count on her admissions counselor as a friend who will help her adjust to the new and sometimes bewildering experiences of college life. The field man is the "contact" between home and the college. He keeps in close touch with each girl's family and is always interested in her progress.

Mr. Harvey S. Walter has been director of the admissions staff for many years. Working in close cooperation with President Wood, he has helped in developing many of the progressive features of Stephens life. Each counselor has a thorough background of college training and has had experience in dealing with educational problems.

The staff now includes: William A. Baker, who covers Ohio and western Pennsylvania; George W. Baltzer, Tennessee, Kentucky, and southern Indiana; Wm. Justin Brown, northern Indiana and all of Illinois except the Chicago area; Walter L. Cooper, Kansas and Missouri; William David Carr, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, Delaware, Eastern Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia; Ardys J. Draper, Iowa, South Dakota, and Nebraska; Roy T. Gallemore, Mississippi, Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina, part of Florida, the Hawaiian Islands and Alaska; Machin Gardner, Washington, Oregon, and California; J Scott Hemry, Chicago area and western New York; Lowell Hildebrand, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North Dakota; John B. Kyd, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana; Lynn A. Phillips, eastern New York, New Jersey, the New England States and Canada; Jacob H. Trefz, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Utah and Nevada; Rider Stockdale, southwest Texas, Arizona and New Mexico; Ralph E. Wible, Michigan; Mrs. Vernon M. Williams, northeast Texas; H. S. Walter, part of Florida, Cuba, and South America.

Men from the admissions staff now serving in the armed forces include Vernon M. Williams, Richard P. Pooley, and R. T. Harold.

Publications

The Director of Publications at Stephens College is Dr. Roy Ivan Johnson, who is also associated with the program of educational research. The Office of Publications is charged with the responsibility for supervising and issuing four general types of publications: (1) student publications such as the Stephens Standard, Within the Ivy, Stephensophia, and Stephens Life; (2) official college publications which contain educational information of interest to prospective patrons and educators, such as the catalogue, special issues of the Stephens College Bulletin, and the Stephens College News Reporter; (3) occasional "special purpose" bulletins and announcements required by the administration for general faculty and student information; (4) purely professional publications, including books, educational monographs, and magazine articles. This last aspect of the publications program contemplates the release in the near future of books and monographs setting forth the background of Stephens' plan of general education and its development of such aspects of the program as the Research Department, the Humanities Course, Training in Communications, Marriage Education, Clinical Techniques in Education, and Training for Citizenship.

"The publications of a college," says Dr. Johnson, "are the face which it shows to the public. The importance of clear and accurate information, the importance of appearance and style of expression cannot be overestimated. The quality of the college publications should reflect the quality of the institution."

Assistant to the Director of Publications is Mrs. Lillian H. Keene. Other members of the staff who have assumed sponsorship or who lend assistance in the preparation of materials are Miss Minnie May Johnson (Stephensophia), Robert J. Sailstad (Stephensophia), Russel H. Fowler (Board of Publications), Howard Baker (Within the Ivy), Clarence W. Hach (Stephens Life), and Mrs. Mary H. Wideman (Alumnae News). Also, assisting as co-editors of the Stephens College News Reporter, are Toimi Kyllonen, James B. Enochs, and Sherman P. Lawton.

Libraries

DEAN B. LAMAR JOHNSON

To quote from the Stephens College Bulletin, "Education, if it is to represent permanent gains for the student, must move toward self-dependence in learning. To be able to command the services of books, to be efficient in securing needed information, to acquire delightful familiarity with books as purveyors of pleasure, to be able to turn intelligently to literature as a source of knowledge or inspiration is to be equipped with one of the important essentials of continued educational growth. Accordingly the library plan which is being developed at Stephens College reaches into every department of instruction and offers inviting opportunities both for class study and for leisure time reading."

The Stephens system of placing the books "where they're needed" has greatly increased the number of books borrowed from the libraries.

In order that every Stephens girl can learn to appreciate the best the world has to offer in the fields of art, music, and literature, libraries have been provided in twenty-seven buildings on the campus.

During the years from 1927 to 1932, each Stephens girl borrowed an average of 9.27 books per year from the Stephens general library. With the decentralized system, however, the average number of books borrowed by each girl per year is now 35.00—a definite increase.

The personal library, which allows each student to borrow eight books to keep in her room all year, has helped to make recreational reading play an important part in the life of every Stephens girl.

Residence Counselors

Residence Counseling plays a large part in the program that gives individual attention to each and every Stephens "Susie." This and other counseling services on campus are coordinated under the direction of Dean Weldon P. Shofstall. Under the sponsorship of the residence counselors are the Senior Sister Organization, the House Council, the Leadership Training Program, and the Coordinating Board.

There is a residence counselor, with several assistant counselors, in each of the twenty-four residence halls on campus. The counselors selected have about the same qualifications as instructors in other departments of the College.

Much of the counseling, especially in the larger halls, is done indirectly through the Senior Sisters, who work directly with the hall counselors. The governing body of each hall is its House Council, which is composed of the hall officers and the chairmen of hall committees. Guided by the hall counselor and her assistants, these groups work together in the interest of the girls in the hall.

Every two weeks there is a meeting of residence counselors to discuss problems and formulate counseling policies. New ideas and suggestions for uniform policies are brought out by a Policy Committee and voted upon by the group. Speakers are often invited to talk on various topics related to hall counseling. This year a new handbook was compiled which describes the latest and best practices in hall counseling.

Residence Counseling is designed to instruct Stephens students in the art of graceful living. Manners and bearing, health, and citizenship are the fundamentals upon which a successful life is formed. "Susie's" big problem, time-budgeting, is considered as well as the social activities and personality traits necessary to "round out" her college education. Working with the counselor in her hall, the student becomes capable of solving, for herself, the problems she will have to face in the world of tomorrow.

Division of Home and Family

DR. HENRY BOWMAN

"Every girl should be prepared for what, in most cases, becomes her basic role in life," say the members of the Division of Home and Family. In order that Stephens girls may receive the best of such preparation, they are offered courses that are obvious and direct contributions to woman's place in the world. These courses are kept flexible and are adapted to contemporary problems and needs.

There are specific courses in nutrition, pre-natal education, clothing and grooming, personal finance, consumer problems, and marriage education. They are directed toward the needs of girls who plan to be future wives, mothers, and homemakers. The importance of training girls for vocational work is also stressed.

The Division of Home and Family supervises campus service agencies such as the personal appearance and personal finance clinics. It also supervises the campus nursery school, and co-operates with two community nursery schools.

Stephens was one of the first colleges in the country to stress marriage education. Dr. Henry Bowman, Yale graduate, who is head of the Division, and his staff feel that marriage education is an important and essential factor in the education of young women. The department now offers a course in marriage education, taught by three full-time instructors, which has been extensively studied by educators from all parts of the country.

Division of Foreign Languages

MR. GEORGE SCHERER

War brings about changes in the way people think, and this year many Stephens students have thought about visiting Latin America and Europe after the war. To prepare these students to speak foreign languages, a special emphasis was put upon teaching the oral approach.

The Steering Committee of the Foreign Language Department is headed by Mr. George Scherer of the German department. Assisting him are Mrs. Mary Lou Bilsborough of the French department and Mrs. Edith Kendrick of the Spanish department.

The activities of the year were highlighted by informal coffee hours once a week in each of the language departments. Students who were interested came, conversed, heard music, and sang in the language which they were studying. Miss Kathleen Nicholaysen organized a foreign language chorus in which seventy students participated. The purpose of this chorus was to train girls to sing in all three of the languages. Later in the year the girls worked out folk dances and gave them in costume at the different club meetings.

Health and Physical Education

DR. L. M. FOLKERS

Especially now, in time of war, health is of vital importance both to the individual and to the nation. The Health Division, under the leadership of Dr. L. M. Folkers, has taken new steps this year to promote the health of the Stephens College student body. Everything that may affect health, even "airsickness" sometimes suffered by beginning aviation students, has been taken into consideration in working out satisfactory steps for the promotion of health.

Dr. Folkers, who has been in health work since 1935 in various colleges throughout the nation, stated that the organization had three main objectives for 1944 and 1945. They were: (1) the evaluation of the present health of Stephens students, (2) the maintenance of good health on the campus, and (3) the return of students to their communities with a better understanding of health problems in relation to themselves, their families, and their communities.

These objectives are being attained through health conferences and physical examinations. They are also being gained by sympathetic understanding of students' problems combined with treatment based upon modern scientific medical practice, and by controlling the environment of students as it is related to personal and community health.

Senior health conferences are another important addition to the promotion of health at Stephens. During the course of the year, Seniors will be given private conferences at which time their school health record will be evaluated and a special program for good health for the rest of their lives will be set up. "It is believed," said Dr. Folkers, "that these conferences will be of great help to homemakers in formulating their future plans as far as healthful living is concerned."

Physical education is an important factor in maintaining good health. The physical education department, which is part of the Health Division, is in charge of Miss Wilma Haynes, who has directed physical education activities for many years, both in this country and abroad.

The physical education department gives each student a well-rounded motor experience through individual and group sports and through the rhythmic activities of the dance. It is hoped the student may develop and maintain good organic functioning through the habit of regular exercise according to her individual needs. Another important objective of the department involves development and maintenance of good body mechanics (posture). Relaxation has always been an important phase of the entire physical education program. The department emphasizes relaxation in all sport and dance skills, and has been the sponsor of Siesta since it was first started by President Wood.

As a result of the influence of these two agencies, Stephens women now go forth with health habits and recreational skills that will enable them better to cope with the problems presented by a world recovering from the blows of war.

Social Studies

DR. JOHN A. DECKER

"The goal of the Social Studies Division," according to Dr. John A. Decker, head of the division, "is to prepare the young women enrolled in our classes to assume their responsibilities as intelligent citizens and progressive civic leaders in their home communities. The members of this division feel that college-trained women are in a position to exert a determining influence in national and community life. For this reason, it is the ambition of the staff to make Stephens students aware of America's major civic problems, to teach them how to study these problems critically, and to develop each student's desire to work constructively toward their solution. This year, in all courses offered in the division, special attention has been given to the changes in American life resulting from the war and the new problems which will arise in the post-war world."

The basic course offered by the division is Social Problems, which attempts to introduce the student to the major civic problems of contemporary American life. The division also offers courses in history, economics, sociology, government, and international relations. Last spring a new course in Community Leadership was inaugurated. It challenges campus leaders with the possibilities of civic leadership in their home communities after graduation. Columbia is used as a laboratory, and students enrolled in this division have a chance to visit local institutions and interview local civic leaders. Among the clubs sponsored by the Social Science Division are the Stephens League, which sponsored the mock political campaign last October, and the Foreign Relations Club, whose major project was the international relations lecture series.

Division of Humanities

MISS LOUISE DUDLEY

Heading the Humanities Division which brings all the arts "down to earth" and "up to date." is a faculty committee whose members represent the five basic fields of study offered in the division.

Miss Louise Dudley, chairman of the committee, is specifically concerned with the Introduction of Literature classes. This particular course is necessary for an evaluation and comprehension of all the arts.

Representing the literature department is Mrs. Zay Rusk Sullens who, with the other instructors in the course, helps the individual student discover a source of recreation and inspiration in literature. The aim of this department is to encourage students to form the habit of reading good literature.

The field of drama has, as its committee delegate, Mr. Cameron King. This section includes not only instruction in acting, but also lessons in the intricate backstage work that is necessary before a production can be put behind the footlights. This year the beginning acting classes produced forty one-act plays on the Lodge stage. Four major productions were given in the auditorium by the advanced classes. The scenery and lighting were conceived and executed by the students in the Scene Shop. Through this type of course, the department develops a further awareness of drama and the technical proficiency necessary for vocational work in the theater.

"Music for pleasure and music for a vocation" is the slogan of classes offered by the music department, represented on the Humanities committee by Mr. Basil D. Gauntlett. The Conservatory, the college music center, contains both classrooms where the theory of music is taught and rooms where the students may practice. In the new music building on Broadway, a listening room and a library equipped with literature about music has been established this year. Orchestra, Student Trio, Band, Glee Club, Sunrise Choir, Choristers, Dance Band, Music Service Guild, and Burrall Choir are a few of the musical groups sponsored by this department.

The art department, headed by Mr. Russell Green, studied better city planning in this year's photography, painting, and industrial design classes. The picturesque Art Center houses the classrooms where the art courses are taught. A new addition to the department is an art gallery where various paintings of national and international interest are displayed.

The Division of Humanities, consisting of the art, music, literature, and drama departments, is a coordinated group which helps at Stephens to keep culture alive in a world at war.

Guess what it's going to be?

Communications

Realizing the importance of reading, writing, speaking, and listening in each student's daily life, the Division of Communications, under the direction of Mr. Wesley A. Wiksell, has this year broadened its entire program. Many new courses have been added to its curriculum, and attractive new quarters have been acquired in Sampson Hall, including a writing laboratory which contains the Hattie Jean Falk Memorial Library.

At the beginning of the school year the Division, through a series of diagnostic tests, analyzes the communication abilities of each student. Deficiencies in the use of any skill are corrected individually in the reading, writing, speaking, and listening classes and in the special clinics. Outstanding students are given a chance to do "honors" work. There are opportunities for such study being offered in radio, realistic literature, semantics, propaganda study, oral interpretation, and story telling. Special courses in vocational journalism, for girls especially interested in writing for women's magazines, and business-aviation speech are also offered.

A broad program of integration with other divisions is being developed and students are encouraged to increase their skill in communications through work in other classes. This improvement is facilitated by the latest methods in the use of radio programs and motion pictures for classroom work.

Following the example of Stephens, a number of other colleges have recently organized integrated courses in beginning English in which the communicational skills in reading, writing, and speaking are taught in a basic orientation course.

Division of Vocations

Under the Division of Vocations, which is headed by Dean Weldon P. Shofstall, are the Secretarial, Merchandising, Radio, and Aviation departments, and the Vocational Guidance Clinic.

When a girl enters Stephens, she is given a series of aptitude tests which form a yardstick for measuring her ability and aptitude in several major fields of interest. The Vocational Guidance Clinic uses the results of these tests in assisting each girl to find goals for herself, and in helping her choose a vocation in which she can best use her talents.

Besides the standard courses in shorthand, typewriting, and accounting, the secretarial department offers courses in business organization, stenotypy, and the operation of business machines. The department cooperates with several business organizations in downtown Columbia, and thus makes it possible for secretarial students to gain practical experience in office work.

The merchandising department first seeks to help its students determine whether or not they are definitely interested in the field. For those students who find that their interest is real and lasting and who meet qualifications for the work, opportunities for merchandising experience are provided in the Stephens College Store and other stores in Columbia.

KTX, the campus radio station, is operated entirely by students majoring in radio. It offers initial training and experience similar to that which they would get at a small local station and prepares them to continue work in the radio field after graduation from Stephens.

The aviation department at first restricted its training to preparation for work in airline offices. Now it includes ground school training, drafting for use in aviation manufacturing plants, and actual flight training in the college-owned planes. The fact that the program is sponsored by an advisory board composed of executives of the major airlines is proof that the department's courses are designed to be of real value to the girls after college.

Division of Science

Important work and hard work, combined with practical experience, make the Science Division indispensable to Stephens' program for turning out women as better citizens. A look into the future shows that these trained citizens will be badly needed in new industrial fields that are likely to develop as a result of recent discoveries in science.

This division, headed by Dr. Carl N. Rexroad, takes in seven departments: psychology, geology, biology, zoology, botany, chemistry, and mathematics. By applying the specific "human" interests of women to scientific fields, these courses are directed toward the goals of mental health and scientific orientation.

The purpose of the division has been expressed as "the administration of a unified plan to present materials directly or indirectly bearing on the student's everyday problems in such a way that she will be able to look forward and adapt them to her after-college experiences."

"Fox hunts" and all-day field trips are taking the place of pre-war science trips into various parts of Missouri and adjoining states. An attempt was made to bring the classroom and nature together. The honor of serving the community in an effort to gain personal experience has been won by some fifteen girls, who work as laboratory and clerical assistants at the State Cancer Hospital. Although the number of girls who may participate is limited, it is an unusual opportunity for getting an externship and part-time hospital experience during their period of training. Students have also been found useful in meteorology work both at the Columbia airport and downtown.

The Science Division has always been one of the outstanding divisions at Stephens. The war has made many new demands on it, but its job is being well done.

Religion and Philosophy

Keyed to the needs of the students at Stephens College is the Division of Religion and Philosophy, directed by Mr. Paul Weaver. The philosophy of the division has always been to anticipate the needs of students and to help them to prepare for the crises of post-college years.

This year, with a larger campus and the added problems of war and impending peace, there had to be unity and integration in a program that was to meet adequately the religious needs of the students. To help achieve this unity, the plan of having Burrall attendance run through eight consecutive Sundays rather than on alternate Sundays has been put into practice.

Another new idea is that of having Senior and Junior committees that work to keep the Burrall staff informed about student problems.

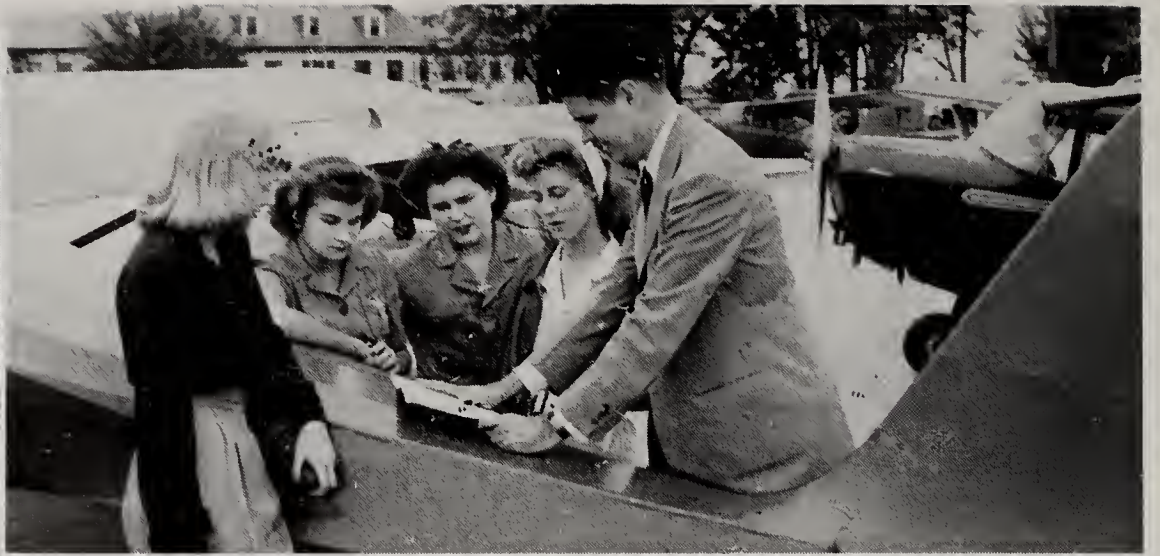

The Burrall Choir and Burrall Symphony Orchestra are integral parts of the program as are the weekly Vesper programs. The "Sundays at 7:22" discussion groups and the Sunrise Service help round out the program. This program is campus-wide in its scope and gives every activity a truer purpose and a finer meaning.

Retrospect of the Senior Year

CAROLYN MALONE

You who have lived at Stephens, and with Stephens, for the past year know its spirit well. You need not read here a description of the campus or the Stephens way of life.

The map of Stephens campus that you first saw in Within the Ivy has become to you a real community. Names of buildings are now associated with classes you had and with new knowledge, appreciation, and skill acquired there. Your teachers, you have discovered, are real friends. Now they are men and women in whose wealth of knowledge you want to share, and in whose lives you see patterns to follow in your own. Pictures of dormitories have transferred themselves into pictures in your mind—pictures of people, parties, bull sessions, an endless kaleidoscope of living with friends. The names you read on pages of this "Sophie" have become living people—people with whom you've shared experiences that will stay alive for you when your college career is long past.

It is probably hard for you to believe now that yours is no longer the new class on campus. It is hard to believe that you have suddenly become the person to whom others, new and uninitiated in the ways of Stephens, will look for help and guidance. You are shy though proud, as we were, to take this new status and responsibility. But you will discover more and more as the year moves along that you now have opportunities that you could never have before. You now have the opportunity to make yourself a living example of what Stephens wants to teach. You can show the way to those who seek it—the way to a constructive, satisfying life at Stephens, and the way to a joyously complete life in the years to follow.

Never forget your new opportunity. As you help those who live here with you, so will they help you. They will add their contributions to the treasure of ideas, talents, and accomplishments that build Stephens. Thus they will help to build a world in which the spark of friendly Stephens living is kindled into a fire that will brighten the lives of all within its reach.

You are a part of the Stephens way of life, and its strength and beauty are for always a part of you.

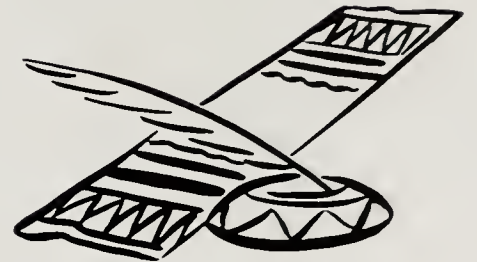

Let Stephens give you everything it will—and give Stephens all you can.

Apprentices

Girls who wish to return to Stephens after graduation for further study may enter as Apprentices.

Special training is given these girls, in order to prepare them more completely for professional work. Most of these girls hold semi-faculty positions, with regular hours for office or instructional work. Apprentices may use their own discretion as to "light rules" and number of permissions.

Eight girls were Apprentices this year. These girls and their fields of specialization were: Barbara Harris, music; Janet Lovelace, radio; Elizabeth Wilson, Aviation; Marilyn Link, Aviation; Jeanne Sonricker, Aviation; Kay King, Music; Alice Riddick, Pre-medicine; and Maxine Lichtenstein, Nursery School. Barbara Harris and Janet Lovelace served as president and vice-president of the group respectively.

A Word by the Faculty Sponsors

The sponsors of the Stephensophia have watched with interest the ways in which the members of the staff have anticipated and met the problems which beset the editors of a wartime college year-book. The limitation of materials, such as films, printing paper, cover stock, etc., as well as increased production cost, has presented a real challenge. But by ingenuity and cooperation, the challenge has been met and another Stephensophia has been produced. The student body, particularly the seniors, are to be congratulated on having a hard-working and loyal staff who have, through wise planning and persevering effort, made it possible for the class of '45 to have this treasured memento of their graduation year.

Some things, of course, have had to be sacrificed. Individual faculty pictures, which have been a feature in recent Stephensophias, do not appear in this edition. To conserve film, student photographers have limited their coverage of campus events. To conserve engraving time, many student panels were sent in early, thus necessitating some miscellaneous groupings of late pictures, as on these pages. The book has been redesigned in size and style in order to conserve cost and utilize to best advantage materials available under government regulation.

Every member of the staff deserves high credit. And the group as a whole must be commended for the spirit with which they have faced and accomplished a difficult job. To them it has been not only an educational experience but also a labor of love. As their sponsors, we bespeak for them your gratitude for the 1945 Stephensophia. They have produced it for you under unprecedented difficulties.

VIRGINIA POOLE

“Did the petition pass?” “What is Legislature doing now?” These and many more questions have run through the mind of every girl at Stephens at one time or another. Just what position does Legislature have at Stephens that makes it so important?

Legislature is the student self-governing body. It is the agency which enables the Civic Association to represent every girl on the campus. Legislature is the final authority in the administration of all extra-class activities.

The success of Legislature this year was due to the initiative and the capabilities of the girls who were chosen to represent the student body. As the head of Legislature, Virginia Poole, president of the Civic Association, displayed outstanding ability, and in doing so, she served every girl on campus. Holding the most important executive and administrative job, “Ginni” has given it her constant and enthusiastic attention. Not once has she been too busy or preoccupied to pass any Susie without a friendly smile and “hello.” Her outstanding attribute has been the thoroughness with which her many jobs have been performed.

In her final statement to the junior class, Ginni said, “There is something beyond the academic routine at Stephens that is worth a lifetime of experiences—perhaps this is called the Stephens spirit, and can be found in friendship, campus participation, and living by old traditions, but through the Ten Ideals this spirit and all its experiences can be realized and built into a valuable philosophy.” This is Ginni, and completely brings out her true attitude toward life on the Stephens Campus.

Civic Association

All the activities of Civil Association of Stephens College are administered through the Council of Division Heads, which is composed of all the presidents of the following major divisions: Student Activity Board, Council of Class Officers, Board of Publication, Campus Service Board, Pan-Hellenic Council, the Independents, Stephens Recreation Association, and the War-Peace Organization. The council also includes in its membership: Senior Sister Chairman and Burrall Class, residence hall presidents, and the presidents of the junior, sophomore, and freshman classes.

For many years Dr. Merle Prunty has served as the sponsor of Civic Association. In the 1943-44 campus-wide election, Virginia Poole was elected C. A. president; Pat Preston, first vice-president; Mary Kopecky, second vice-president; Helen Lipsett, secretary; Bernice Lind, treasurer. All of these officers worked cooperatively and effectively with Dr. Prunty to represent all of the girls at Stephens in a business-like manner. Through their guidance, the girls at Stephens have been able to experience the purposive effectiveness of true democracy as exemplified in the administration of campus activities.

Each spring the new officers of Civic Association are elected from "nominations by petition" approved by the student Legislature. These officers receive six weeks of training in a course called "Campus Leadership."

Council of Class Officers

Headed by Carolyn Malone, who is president of the Senior class, the Council of Class Officers is composed of the officers and sponsors of the Senior, Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman classes. The Steering Committees of the various classes serve on the Council until officers for the different classes are elected.

The Board of Councils, as it is sometimes called, has as its main purpose the developing of unity, harmony, and efficiency among the classes and is striving to spread throughout the student body an appreciation of the things for which Stephens stands. The Board is also encouraging participation in extra-class activities and war emergency work. In connection with its War-Peace Organization project, the Board is stressing the importance of post-war planning and thinking.

The handling of class activities is another duty of the Council of Class Officers. Some of these class activities consist of sports events, proms, Junior Nights, bond rallies, and the big bonfire in the fall.

Twice a month the meetings of the Council are held. During these meetings class and inter-class problems and projects are discussed.

Each student is represented on the Council by her class officers and sponsor. However, the Council wants each girl to feel she has an active part in the function and development of her class. It is the hope of the Council that class activities will be an enjoyable and influential part of each girl's college life. Faculty sponsor was Dr. Henry Bowman.

Campus Service Board

Campus Service Board, commonly referred to as C. S. B., is the organization behind the people "behind the counters" of the tearooms and blue rooms on Stephens campus.

In this group, the word service is the key to all activities which the Board undertakes. Headed by Midge Ebling, president of CSB, the Board maintains the tearooms, blue rooms, the Lodge and Aviation Hall dining rooms, coke machines, the lost and found department, the Swap Shop, and even mail service and the distribution of flowers and magazines for girls in the infirmary.

Eight girls, under the sponsorship of Miss Laura Searcy, are responsible for this work. Midge Ebling, directed the student managers who included: Betsy Moore, vice-president and manager of Lela Raney Wood tearoom; Betsy Brown, second vice-president and supervisor of the Swap Shop, lost and found, infirmary service, and Puff Inn; Jeanne Graham, treasurer and director of Walter Hall tearoom and the Cupboard. Betty Neel represented CSB at the Lodge; Sally Dee was in charge of "Skylanes"; Hope Chandler managed Windsor blue room; and Mary Lou Burks was "major domo" of Tuck Inn. Miss Laura Searcy was faculty sponsor.

During the year, CSB has sponsored the complete redecoration and management of Windsor blue room, Puff Inn, Tuck Inn, and the Cupboard, and the reupholstering of the furniture in Lela Raney Wood tearoom.

From the murals on the walls to the luncheon cloths on the tables, the Board has been responsible for the entire decoration and management of the new Lodge dining room.

Student Activity Board

By means of the Student Activity Board under which all the honorary sororities and clubs operate at Stephens, all students are encouraged to participate in well-organized leisure activities.

This year SAB has undertaken as its campus-wide discussion project, education for peace and rehabilitation. This work has all been done through the clubs and honorary sororities, and the results were presented at the War-Peace Organization convocation this spring. The W.P.O. is the organization with which the Student Activity Board is directly associated. Every club and sorority on campus is given a project that is significant in terms of some war or postwar problem.

S.A.B. meets once a week to discuss the activities which connect it with other student divisions on campus. The membership of the Board consists of the presidents of all clubs and honorary sororities.

In former years, the Board has sponsored a hilarious, fun-filled carnival each spring. This has been discontinued for the duration of the war. Student Activity Board annually awards a cup to the organization working under it which does the most outstanding work.

New clubs under S.R.A. this year were the Writer's Club, and the Army-Anchor Brats.

Officers of the Board were: Lee Perry, president; Mary Lou Pike, vice-president; Loranda Dinham, treasurer; and Pat McKinney, secretary. Miss Cynthia Press, of the Spanish department, served as faculty sponsor.

Board of Publications

A publication program that would tax the facilities of a large, commercial publishing house is the main concern of the Board of Publications. This year was one of the most successful years in its history. Guided by president Mary Jean Corbitt, the Board features the publication of the Stephensophia, Standard, Life, and a handbook for in-coming students, Within the Ivy.

The Board is made up of four executive officers, two of whom are elected by campus-wide vote, the three editors of the major publications, three juniors from these publications, and a representative of the junior and senior class.

Last fall the Board delegated the responsibility for Stephens' new Cartoon Book to the Stephens Life staff. The new book, first of its kind at Stephens, is filled with original cartoons contributed by students. Another project of the Board this year was a revision of the Stephens song book, which involved the elimination of unused songs and the addition of new ones. This group is sponsored by Mr. Russell H. Fowler.

Success at last appears hopeful with respect to the Board's efforts to secure a suitable "home" for the major campus publications. With the cooperation of President Wood and Mr. Dearing, prospects are bright for newly-equipped quarters adjacent to Sampson Hall.

Pan-Hellenic Council

Making the Ten Ideals a vital part of every girl's life is one of the goals of the Pan-Hellenic program. Each sorority pledge becomes thoroughly acquainted with Stephens history and traditions before her formal initiation and is expected to uphold these high standards of living in her associations on campus and throughout her life.

Pan-Hellenic Council is composed of the presidents of the sixteen social sororities at Stephens College. Through Pan-Hellenic Council all sorority activities are coordinated so that sororities may achieve their aim—that of building friendship and spreading a feeling of sisterhood among the sororities.

Some of Pan-Hellenic Council's activities have become annual events and are eagerly anticipated each year. The group sponsors the Pan-Hellenic Ball, a traditional sorority sing, a bridge tournament and the "Pan-Hel Follies," the proceeds of which go to a war charity.

Again this year, all sororities turned out for work on war projects sponsored by the Burrall Council. Each sorority elected a chairman who was trained by the Burrall Council to direct some specific community project. Each project chairman then instructed and supervised a group of students who carried on the project during the year as a campus-wide activity.

The Pan-Hellenic officers were Phyllis Thompson, president; Jane Newton, vice-president; Doris Brammer, secretary; and Betty Greve, treasurer. Mrs. Louise Howell, counselor of Senior Hall, served as faculty adviser.

Independent Council

The Independents of Stephens serve as a campus social organization for non-sorority members. Originated by the Pan-Hellenic Council it was, until four years ago, a division of Pan-Hel. Independents now have the largest organization on the campus with the exception of Civic Association, of which the Independents are a major subdivision.

The main purposes of this organization as stated by Linda Wells, president, are: "To maintain a feeling of democracy on campus, to educate the girls for peace, and to provide social as well as service opportunities.

Projects this year were planned with special care. They included faculty speakers, debates, and discussions. The theme of the main project was "The Post-War World." The Independents contributed more of their time and effort than ever before toward making the Burrall Service Projects successful.

Social activities sponsored by the Independents were numerous: Sadie Hawkins and Valentine parties, the Independents' Bonfire, Independent Formal Ball in March, Independent Sing in April; and the Circus in May at Stephens stables.

The Independent Board included the following girls: Linda Wells, president; Anne Pasley and Lonnie Hottinger, vice-presidents; Carol Stiefel, secretary; Sarah Bickler, treasurer; Mary Chappell, W. P. O. representative; "Sammy" Samuelson, publicity manager; and Jean Kriener, project chairman. Miss Helen Exley contributed her efforts as sponsor.

The Stephens War-

War-Peace Organization serves to stimulate both students and faculty in a total college war and peace effort. W. P. O. carries out student suggestions as to how Stephens as a college can help to win the war and plan the peace. The "Zip the Lip" campaign developed from the suggestion of a Junior that Stephens students should be more conscious of the harm done by spreading careless gossip.

Every hall is represented on W. P. O. Council, along with a representative from Pan-Hellenic Council, the Independents, Student Activity Board, Victory Speakers, the Senior Class, the Consumer Education Department, and the campus War Stamp chairman. Miss Marjorie Carpenter and Miss Melvene Draheim were faculty sponsors and Miss Agnes G. Tandberg represented the hall counselors. The president of W. P. O. for 1944-1945 was Chrissie Lou Berry, with Frances Hamilton, vice-president, and De Lores Albright, secretary-treasurer.

Early in October, W. P. O. and Burrall Council, with which W. P. O. works in close cooperation, presented President Wood as a convocation speaker. In his talk, he emphasized the importance of the role young women must play now and later when the fighting men have returned. To help students make a wise choice of community or war work for the year, the various Burrall Service Projects were outlined in detail.

CHRISSIE LOU BERRY

Peace Organization

With the help of the Red Cross, W. P. O. set up a course in Nurses' Aide training. When the mobile unit was in Columbia, W. P. O. publicized it and stimulated interest in donating blood. Contributions for the "Mile-O-Dimes" campaign for Infantile Paralysis relief were collected through W. P. O. Under its direction, Stephens Life sponsored the Bond Rally in the fall and collected $9.000 during the Sixth War Loan Drive. All War Stamp Sales were managed by the War-Peace Organization.

The final event of the year on the W. P. O. calendar is the "awards" convocation held in the first part of May. Its purpose is to give recognition to girls who have made an unusual contribution to any phase of war work or community service. The prize of a War Bond is awarded along with ten honorable mention prizes of $5.00 in war bonds each.

In addition to the effective work of the student officers, much credit goes to the faculty sponsors, Miss Marjorie Carpenter and Miss Melvene Draheim, for their supervision and coordination of the campus activities directed toward war-peace goals.

NANCY STOVALL

Senior Sister Council

Each new student at Stephens receives help throughout the year from her Senior Sister, a girl especially trained for this job. Heading the Senior Sister Organization this year was Nancy Stovall, assisted by her co-chairman, Elinor Booth; and Miss Catherine Spooner sponsored the organization. The Senior Sister chairman from each hall serves on the Senior Sister Council, which regulates the group's activities all over campus.

One girl for about every six Juniors, or only two hundred girls in all, are chosen in the spring by the House Council to become Senior Sisters. They are selected on the basis of personal integrity, understanding, patience, tact, willingness to work, determination, dependability, and good scholarship.

Soon after appointments are made, a breakfast is held to welcome the new members into the organization, and they begin taking leadership training, which is continued after vacation for a week before school re-opens in the fall. Senior Sisters are very active during the year and plan the social events in junior halls, in addition to each girl's acting as confidant, helper, and friend to her Junior sisters. Their job is especially important at the beginning of the term—when new girls often need advice and assistance in planning their college careers. Senior Sisters are always willing to listen to girls' problems and help in whatever way they can.

Since its beginning in 1921, the Senior Sister Organization has come a long way. It has won a vital place in our campus lives.

Stephens Recreation Association

"Don't be a hot-house flower, come out and join the fun!" The Stephens Recreation Association was organized to encourage the participation of every student on Stephens campus in some physical activity. This depends, not on the girl's ability to play a game well, but on her active participation. Only seven hours of participation in some physical activity during a six-week period is required for membership in the Stephens Recreation Association.

This organization promotes attitudes of good sportsmanship. It cooperates with other campus organizations, and gives each girl a chance to display leadership.

Promotion of post-war fitness was the project of the club this year. Under the sponsorship of Miss Cowdry, Miss Spencer, and Miss Pederson, the post-war fitness committee has representatives in each hall who help girls keep physically fit.

Student officers for the year were Carolyn Williams, president; Elizabeth Hickinbotham, vice-president; Margaret Witherington, secretary; Anne Keiffer, treasurer; and Betty Pierce, program chairman.

Each spring, the Recreation Association sponsors an all-campus Play Day, which features a wide variety of sports in which students from all classes and all residence halls participate.

Senior Class Officers

The establishment of friendly, realistic standards of courtesy on the Stephens campus was the main objective of the Senior Class of 1945. Early in the year a few seniors formed a courtesy committee, which made all students aware of the need for courtesy in every area of life at Stephens College.

A new tradition in the senior class this year was Senior Night, a "stunt program" and "fun night," arranged by and given by the senior class.

The class officers carried on the tradition of selling green ribbons to juniors in the fall and class rings to seniors. They also sponsored "singing suppers," which were held on the first Friday of every month. Plans for a loan organization to be set up in each hall were worked out by the class officers and committees were appointed.

In the spring, the class officers planned the traditional farewell dance and dinner. They were also in charge of the plans for activities during commencement week.

Carolyn Malone headed the senior class this year, with Cecille Winder, first vice-president; Betty Witte, second vice-president; Jane Klein, secretary; Caroline Dunn, treasurer; and Joan Merrick, W. P. O. representative. Dr. Henry Bowman served as class sponsor.

Junior Class Officers

In the impressive Civic Association room in Lela Raney Wood at 8:15 each Wednesday evening, the meeting of the Junior Class Council is called to order. Around the table are gathered the elected officers of the class, special activities chairmen, and representatives from each hall of campus. These students gather for the purpose of originating and utilizing new ideas that will promote and enliven the junior class program. Through the hall representatives, it is possible to "tap" the opinions and ideas of the class as a whole.

This year is the first year that Junior Class Council has been formally recognized as a part of campus government. This comparatively new organization was originated by Katie Overholt, president of the 1944 junior class.

Evening Prayer, held each Sunday evening at 9:10, is a project of the Council that was first planned by Jean Kilpatrick. Junior Nights, the Ivy Fete, the Junior-Senior Banquet, the mid-term party for new juniors, a few of the outstanding undertakings of the Council.

Heading the Council are: Betty Rice, junior class president; Jan Williamson, vice-president; Carol Ann Jones, second vice-president; Pat Morrison, secretary; Mary Parker, treasurer; Jane Barnes, Evening Prayer chairman; Cay Yoder, Junior Night chairman; Rosemary Eastlack, publicity chairman. Faculty sponsor was Dr. Bowman.

FREDI BAKER

After a year or two at Stephens, we leave with a desire to take something with us. Our parties, studies, and planning sessions have been experiences that we can never forget. College life has been crowded with such memories—visits with President Wood, the Senior tower, the blue rooms, the lake, our roommates and friends, that dance at Lela Raney Wood ballroom, worries over psychology (or was it zoology?), the gym classes that tied us in knots, and the first time our suite-mate, aviation enthusiast that she is, flew through the air with (ahem!) considerable ease, and we put her under the shower, swanky flying togs and all!

Stephensophia is a memory book of such a year at Stephens. In it are pictures of our friends, our halls, our teachers, our spreads, and even our beloved "Centralia Bullet!" In it are reminders of club colors, banquets, long weeks of effort, and the goals we set for ourselves. Now and then we have dared to be serious and look ahead—sometimes dreaming, always hopeful—to a world that shall know peace.

We hope you will like your "Sophie"—1945 wartime style—and that you find it more than a book. It is, we trust, a tangible representation of the intangible—a year at Stephens.

The steady clack-clack of typewriters, stacks of yellow "copy paper" marked with heavy black lead, and a group of hard-working girls seated at a round table make up the inevitable Tuesday night scene which precedes the publication of Stephens Life, the official weekly "newspaper" voice of Stephens students.

Compiled by a senior staff of journalism students, Life not only brings news of interest to the campus, but also provides practical experience for the many students on the staff.

The senior staff members, with the assistance of Mr. C. W. Hach, Life sponsor, edit the publication. At mid-term, a Junior Apprentice Board is chosen from the reporting staff to assist the senior staff and to carry on the work during the following year.

Many senior staff members work several hours a week at the Columbia Tribune, a local daily paper, for additional experience in newswriting and advertising.

Life

This year's Life has been a streamlined paper which has exemplified modern principles of makeup and "humanized" news.

An annual Life project is the War Bond Rally to raise money for war bonds. This year, the rally netted $10,000 which was used to help purchase a B-25 bomber.

Dot Escherich, editor-in-chief of Life, graduated at the end of the first semester and was replaced by Lois Jesse. Other staff members were: Jean Goodsitt, campus editor; Alice Crippin, feature editor; Pat Roberts, editorial director; Ann Wagner, makeup editor; and Bette Jean Barnes, news editor.

Mr. Charles W. Scarritt, first semester sponsor of Life, left at Christmas to teach at the School of Mines at El Paso, Texas. He was succeeded by Mr. C. W. Hach, present sponsor of Stephens Life, who came to Stephens from the University of Iowa.

LOIS WHEATLEY

The Stephens

The Stephens Standard staff, headed this year by Lois Wheatley, included Phyllis Noe, Jan Garthwaite, Bee Jay Houk, and Rlene Howell. Marjorie Bottenfield was the business manager and Dr. Roy Ivan Johnson, Director of Publications, was the faculty sponsor. The members of Dr. Johnson's class in advanced composition contributed much material to the Standard and served on its staff.

Apprentices are chosen each year after Christmas vacation from the juniors in the creative writing classes. They serve the rest of the year and learn the routines of magazine editing from the senior staff. Then, the next year's senior staff members are chosen from their ranks.

The Standard comes out five times a year—in November, December, February, April, and May. According to tradition, the last issue is taken over each year by the honorary creative writing sorority, Chi Delta Phi.

The short-story contest in the spring was again sponsored by the Standard. This contest gives recognition to some of the best writers on campus.

Photography, as usual, has been one of the features of the magazine. One of the most widely advertised photography projects on campus was the Cover Girl Contest sponsored by the Standard.

The Standard enables many students to develop and evaluate their creative literary efforts. What's more, it provides the entire campus with a stimulating, up-to-the-minute magazine that accurately mirrors the tempo and spirit of student thought and action at Stephens College.

Standing Ideals Committees

Careful planning and organization on the part of the Standing Ideals Committee has given Stephens students new insight into the meaning of the Ten Ideals. This committee of seven girls is chosen each year by the Standing Ideals Committee of the previous year. Their purpose is to further understanding and appreciation of the Ten Ideals in order to make them a part of the life of every girl on campus. Last year the committee sponsored the publication of a booklet, "Be Your Best Self," which presented an analysis of the Ideal of Self-Discipline. The booklet was mailed to new students before they arrived on campus.

In the fall of the year, an impressive convocation was held at which ten girls explained the qualities that must be possessed by the students chosen to symbolize each of the Ten Ideals. Student and faculty-led discussions, Vespers, Burrall, and Civic Association projects helped students gain a realistic understanding of the Ideals.

These discussions are held during "Ideals Week." At the beginning of the year, every junior found a small white card in her room with a short explanation of each of the ideals written upon it. They also discussed the ideals at their junior-senior sister meeting.

Headed by Velma Prosser, the committee responsible for the success of the project included Jean Kilpatrick, Ann Godfrey, Shirley Garland, Mary Tribble Parrish, Bettie Lou Short, and Lois Jesse. Dr. W. W. Charters served as faculty sponsor.

Honor Roll

MARY BELL, who, as president of Stephens League, organized the campus national elections, and who assisted in distributing Missouri Constitution literature. Her rare sense of humor has enlivened the morale of many Stephens girls.

JOYCE BEYSTER, who has worked competently and with an enthusiasm which inspired others, both in South Hall and on campus; also for excellent work in Stephens Recreation Association.

ELINOR BOOTH, for her competent and untiring efforts as co-chairman of the Senior Sister Council and for her many services to Stephens.

PAT COYNE, who, as first vice-president of Tower, has loyally and competently accepted all her hall and campus responsibilities, and for her cheerful and friendly spirit on campus.

ELEANOR CURRIE, for her many hours of untiring work and steady supervision as chairman of campus war stamps sales.

LYNN DICKEY, for outstanding service to the juniors of Hillcrest Hall and for effective contributions to unity in student government.

LIBBY EPSTEIN, whose consideration and friendliness, as president of Gordon Manor helped the girls in her hall to love and appreciate Stephens, and for faithful work in religious programs and on the Ideals Committee.

JOAN GIESE, for her organizing ability and effective work as Production Manager of the Sophia and also for her loyal and unselfish work as a Senior Sister in Windsor Hall.

NORA GILL, for her continuous work with Burrall, her thoughtfulness and sincere contributions toward the furthering of the Stephens Spirit.

MARGUERITE HANSON and MARION POOL, for effective direction of participations within their halls and for the creation of extra-class participation records for campus-wide use.

PEGGY HARRIMAN, for diligent work as Senior Sister Chairman, North Hall, and for frequent aid, as a member of Tau Sigma Tau, to organizations or individuals with art displays or posters.

BONNIE HOFFERT, for her unfailing service to the campus through conscientious and dependable work at KTX.

NANCY KEOGH, for outstanding and untiring efforts in campus-wide photographic services and for permanent pictorial memories of campus life.

CAROLYN MALONE, for the enjoyment and entertainment contributed to the entire student body through music; and, for her dependable, cooperative spirit.

NOANIE MORRISON, for her genuine interest in campus affairs and for assuming and carrying her responsibilities far beyond duty in connection with the promotion of the Foreign Relations Club lecture series.

SKIP NEWELL, for her untiring work with her class in her junior year, her service as unofficial senior advisor to the Evening Prayer Committee and for her campus-wide influence as president of Phi Theta Kappa.

LERA ROBLING, who, as president of the Foreign Relations Club, has inspired the campus with a greater interest in the organization, and has generously given much extra attention to the welfare of the club.

BARBARA SNYDER, who has contributed much to the campus life through her untiring, conscientious work on KTX, and who has been an outstanding house manager and senior sister in North Hall.

ANNE THORSEN, for unusual and effective responsibility in organizing and sponsoring the Nurses Aides during the first semester of 1944-1945.

LOIS WHEATLEY, for her outstanding work as editor of the Stephens Standard, and for her enthusiasm and sincere judgment which have influenced the campus spirit and development.

EVELYN WOLFRAM, who, above and beyond her work as 2nd Vice-President of Tower Hall, and member of Theta Alpha Epsilon, has sacrificed her free time in doing work for radio, drama, and the campus as a whole.

THE TEN

Many years ago, a student-faculty committee adopted ten ideals which every Stephens girl strives to personify. These ideals form a code of living for Stephens girls not only during their residence, but throughout their entire lives. The Ten Ideals have become a part of the College tradition and form an integral, dominant part of Stephens life.

Every year, a student-faculty board elects ten "Ideals Girls," each of whom best represents one of the ideals in her attitudes and actions. On the following pages, Stephensophia proudly presents these girls.

In addition to the "Ideals Girls," two students are chosen each year for special honors awards. These additional awards are:

THE FOUR-FOLD GIRL, who possesses mental strength, physical health, social poise, and spiritual vision.

THE BEST PRIVATE CITIZEN who has shown a consistent constructive influence through her respect for campus laws and her power of leadership. She does not hold a major campus office but maintains, both in attitude and action, the ideals of the school.

APPRECIATION OF THE BEAUTIFUL . . . An ability to see loveliness in ordinary surroundings as well as in art, music, or literature, and to inspire love for the arts in others.

CHEERFULNESS . . . Consistent maintenance of a buoyantly cheerful outlook on life and a cordial friendliness which brings gladness to others.

COURTESY . . . Gracious refinement and friendliness which express themselves in marked consideration for the comfort and feelings of others.

I D E A L S

FORCEFULNESS . . . Tried ability in office, especially as evidenced by success in tactfully influencing others to work, and in exerting a wide and constructive influence over the campus as a whole.

HEALTH . . . Radiant health of body, excellent physical and mental well-being; not necessarily the ability to star in sports, but a real interest in them.

HONESTY . . . Courage in one's own convictions, eagerness to acknowledge aid and achievements of others, and intolerance of dishonesty of any sort.

LOVE OF SCHOLARSHIP . . . A sincere appreciation and enjoyment of learning, combined with accurate attention to detail; a questioning attitude which leads to voluntary study.

SELF-DISCIPLINE . . . A personal control of sufficient power to enable a girl to do what she knows ought to be done; absolute dependability, involving a wise organization of time and money and a wise decision between various loyalties.

SERVICE . . . Dependable service to Stephens and to one's friends—not particularly conspicuous services which yield honor to the doer, but more especially small, unobtrusive, but constantly-repeated services.

REVERENCE TOWARD THE SPIRITUAL . . . Loyalty to high ideals, a desire to be a positive force for good, tolerance of religious beliefs of others, and a real sincerity in the individual practice of a personal religion.

DIVISION III

Burrall Cabinet

A personal religion for each girl, full of meaning and sincere understanding, is the goal of Burrall Class. Organized to meet student needs and desires, Burrall Class activities are administered by the girls themselves. Student thoughts and wishes are voiced through seven senior girls, who make up Burrall Cabinet. The Burrall faculty staff guides the Cabinet in carrying out the Burrall program.

Each member of the Cabinet is in charge of a special division of Burrall activities, and works with a member of the faculty staff. For example, Nora Gill was in charge of Wednesday and Thursday vespers, and Ann Godfrey of Sunday evening prayer. Other members of the cabinet included Betty Goetz and Rlene Howell, directors of publicity, promotion, and public relations; Rachel Deneen, leader of the "Sunday 7:22" discussion group, which meets in the homes of various faculty members on Sunday evenings; Sue Strother, project chairman; Eugenia Bedard, social chairman; and DeVene Harrold, president.

The regular Sunday morning Burrall Class meetings, "Can Sunday," orphan adoptions, and social service projects are among the activities of Burrall Cabinet, and Burrall Class. Various cultural functions such as an annual play and the Burrall Symphony Concert series are also sponsored by Burrall Class.

Under the leadership of President DeVene Harrold and with the help and guidance of Mr. Paul Weaver, its faculty head, Burrall Class sought to help each girl at Stephens find and build a philosophy that is spiritually practical—one that will help her live a full and rich life.

Sundays at 7:22

The congenial and challenging atmosphere of Sundays at 7:22 is felt by every Stephens girl who attends these group meetings—and they are open to all. This activity provides a chance for serious discussion by interested students from all over campus. Dr. Robert E. Davidson, of the Burrall staff, is sponsor of the organization, which meets at different faculty homes each week. This gives every girl a chance to know informally more members of the faculty as well as other students.

This Sunday evening discussion group stimulates clear thinking and develops an understanding of important viewpoints which will be valuable in helping the girls face the problems of tomorrow. An atmosphere of freedom and informality dominates the discussions, giving each member of the group an opportunity to raise questions and express opinions frankly and sincerely. From such experience springs a feeling of self-confidence and a broadened attitude of tolerance toward the problems which confront all intelligent people.

The organization is under a steering committee composed of Juniors and Seniors. The Senior members of the board this year were Betty Goetz, Rlene Howell, and Anne Thorsen.

Vespers

Soft organ music . . . quiet . . . the dim-lit auditorium . . . relaxed spirits . . . a time of meditation and prayer . . . an inspiring talk. Vespers . . . a beautiful and cherished tradition at Stephens.

Vesper services that girls especially look forward to through the year are Thanksgiving Vespers, Christmas Vespers (when the traditional Christmas candle, symbolizing the Stephens spirit, is lighted), Senior Farewell Vespers, Good Friday Vespers, and the Recognition Vespers (honoring outstanding Juniors).

Some day Vespers will be held in a small chapel where the organ and speaker are not seen by the gathering. President Wood and the members of the senior class of 1939 felt the need of such a chapel, and since that time students and alumnae have been contributing regularly to the Chapel Fund. The Chapel will have a small meditation room where students may come at any time to worship. The Chapel will be built of sound-proof brick walls providing an air of quiet and privacy. It will serve as a meeting place for Vespers and will be used for other religious services. It will also be open to Stephens alumnae who wish to be married there. In architectural design and structure, the new Chapel will be simple, dignified, warm, and friendly.

Burrall Social Service Projects

The Burrall Service Projects have a three-fold purpose: first, giving girls experience in group situations, second, helping the surrounding community, and third, assisting in the war effort.

At the head of these projects are a faculty director, Mr. Harold Bottrell, a student chairman, and a member of the Burrall Cabinet, Sue Strother. They preside over the Executive Council. Project leaders, who are in charge of specific projects, are responsible to this council. Project workers are students who have volunteered.

Stephens girls not only aid others through this program, but they receive valuable experience in social work. They become better informed and more interested citizens of the community. They become leaders with first-hand practical experience and judgment in community affairs, and, therefore, are aware of and sympathetic to the problems and procedures of various community agencies and groups. They also come to understand the differences between professional and non-professional services in the community. Burrall Service Projects are based on the assumption that what is done well here on the campus, with interest and understanding, will tend to improve and enrich post-college living.

Sunrise Choir

Many years ago, President Wood had another of his good ideas. In 1924, he told Miss Nellie Lee Holt about it, and as a result, Sunrise Choir was founded as a part of the Burrall program.

Today, the Sunrise service is an informal radio program based on the International Sunday School lesson. The Sunrise Choir, composed of fifteen members, is under the able direction of Miss Margaret Colby. The girls are carefully selected for their musical ability and sense of responsibility. They have two rehearsals each week.

This year, the Choir made several trips to Fort Leonard Wood in order to sing in the chapel there. The Choir also gave a program at one of the faculty concerts and sang at vespers. Among the special programs given this year by the Choir were the Easter Sunrise Program, presented in connection with the Burrall Easter service at the Stephens Lake, and the commemorative vespers, held in the College auditorium on April 12 following the news of President Roosevelt's death.

Choir practice.

Burrall Choir

Since 1925, when Burrall Choir came into existence, it has been gratefully appreciated by all who have been privileged to hear it. Forty-two voices composed the first choir, which sang at the Baptist Church in addition to its regular Burrall duties. In 1936 the campus had grown so much that the choir was enlarged to 120 voices. It is now composed of women from Stephens and men from the University of Missouri. By means of alumni activities, the fame of the choir has spread. Miss Louise Carhart, Miss Martha Meers, and Mr. Irwin Umlauf are a few of the well-known people who have belonged to the Burrall Choir. The West Point Glee Club has had three former Burrall choir directors in various parts of the country.

The director of the choir is Mr. Ernest L. Cox, who is a singer, teacher, and director. Mr. Irwin Umlauf is his able assistant director; Miss Nesta Williams is the organist; and Virginia Hampton is the piano accompanist. The main purpose of the choir is singing at Burrall Class meetings. However, the choir's many "extra-curricular" activities include an annual performance at the Third Baptist Church in St. Louis and a trip to Jefferson City to sing for the Federated Churches. For music week, the third week in May, Burrall Choir presented, for the first time in Columbia, Handel's great work, Judas Maccabaeus.

Participation in the Burrall Choir has become one of the most popular activities on campus and the worth of Burrall Choir can be estimated in terms of its local and national reputation.

Burrall Orchestra

Burrall Concert Series

In a local dance band in 1921, Burrall Concert Series had its beginning! Some members of the band formed an orchestra, and by the following year, Dr. Basil D. Gauntlett, head of Stephens' music department, was conducting the group. Burrall Orchestra is now composed of students from Stephens and Christian Colleges, the University of Missouri, and Columbia townspeople.

The orchestra has given five concerts featuring famous guest soloists this year. Its opening concert starred Percy Grainger, pianist; its second, Jean Carlton, soprano; and its third, Max Steindel, violoncellist. Dr. Basil D. Gauntlett appeared at the next concert, and the orchestra finished the season with a program starring Patricia Travers, a young violinist.

In May, Burrall orchestra presented the score of Flotow's opera, "Martha." In this production, the ballet, orchestra, and chorus were composed of students and a New York cast. Annette Burford, soprano; Gean Greenwell, base; and Jean Browning, contralto, sang the chief roles.

Providing fine music for Columbia students and townspeople and developing proficient symphonists among students are the aims of the Burrall Concert organization.

Mr. Edward Murphy, conductor of Burrall Orchestra, is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music and has studied in Vienna. He was solo cornetist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and with the All-American Orchestra, under the direction of Leopold Stokowski.

Since 1934, Burrall Concerts have been providing symphonic music for the students and townspeople of Columbia.

Evening Prayer

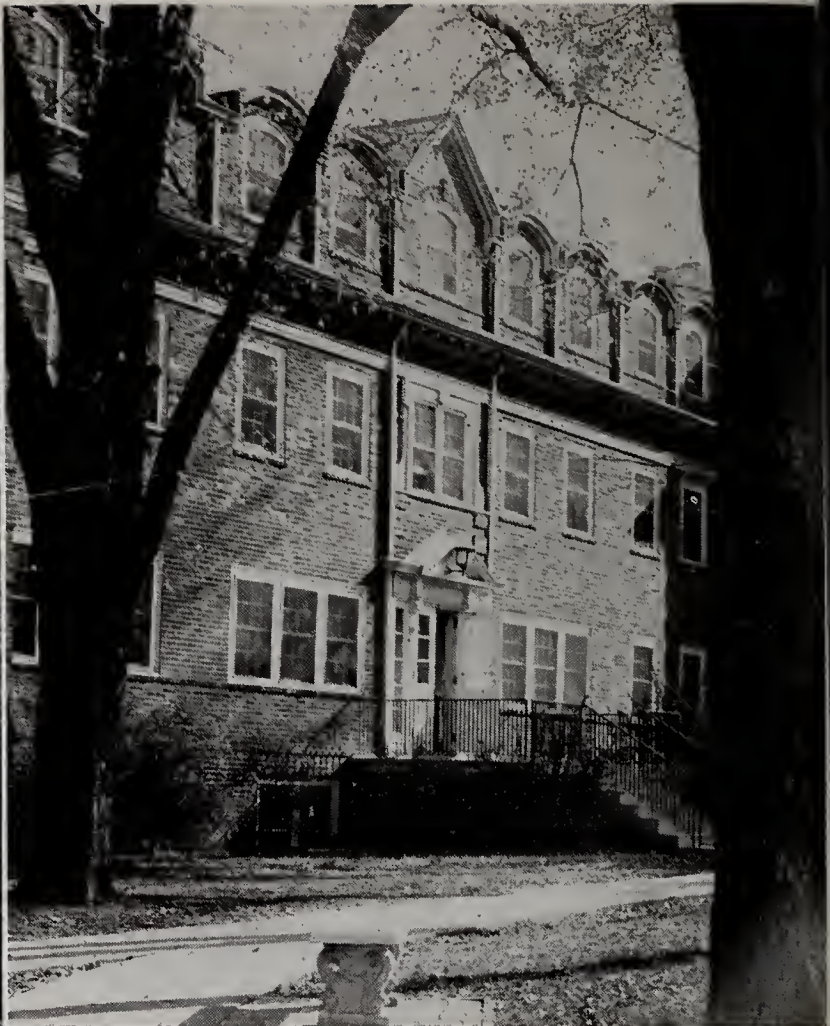

From the hushed darkness of the auditorium on Sunday evening at 9:10, come the solemn notes of an organ prelude. On the stage, dressed in robes of classic white, stand the members of the Sunrise Choir. After the students have entered quietly, and occupied, according to tradition, "every other" seat, three students clad in robes appear on the stage. The scene is set for Sunday Evening Prayer.

This Sunday service is relatively new on campus. In the early part of 1944, the Junior class conceived the idea of sponsoring a semi-religious service on Sunday evenings. Attendance was voluntary, but the plan had such power and scope that it soon became a Stephens "tradition."

The Junior class of 1945, under the guidance of Dr. W. C. Van Deventer, Jane Barnes, student chairman, and the steering committee, formulated the type of program that is now Evening Prayer.

After the singing of a hymn by the choir, a prayer is read. A period of silence and meditation follows, which is terminated by the lighting of a candle and a second prayer, this one for the safety of our men and women in service. Again the voices of the choir join in song. A student speaks briefly about, for example, a way of life or a set of values. The service ends with a prayer sung by the choir.

Evening Prayer is designed to provide a time and a place for silence and meditation. It is produced entirely by students, and it has now established itself as one of those cherished practices which enrich the student's campus experience.

Senior Court

Surrounded by traditions, Senior Court is nearly as old as the school itself. Being a senior is something special, and "Senior Court" is a traditional organization that holds seniors together.

Senior Court is made up of five senior halls: Senior, Wood, Columbia, White, and Lela Raney Wood. The presidents of these halls are the officers of Senior Court. With the help of the five hall counselors, Senior Court promotes cooperation among the senior halls.

Joint social activities are carried on throughout the year, and other student activities are sponsored. The girls in Senior Court strive to uphold the Ten Ideals, and to practice them. Senior Court is fondly remembered by all girls after they leave Stephens.

Alpha Epsilon Rho

Alpha Epsilon Rho, national honorary radio fraternity, encourages girls to take an interest in radio broadcasting. It organizes and promotes student radio activities and recognizes outstanding work done by radio majors on campus.

The radio conference was the outstanding project of the organization last fall. Members of the fraternity acted as official hostesses and helped the radio teachers with the little jobs which had to be done. The standing job of the fraternity is to keep KTX, student radio workshop, running smoothly. Every member of the organization has a responsible job at the station, and takes an interest in all its activities.

Besides working at KTX, these radio enthusiasts presented a speaker during the last semester and sponsored a booth at the S. A. B. carnival. Social functions attended by the members were waffle breakfasts, informal luncheons, and formal dinners.

To qualify for Alpha Epsilon Rho, a student must have above average grades in radio, average grades in other subjects, and do outstanding radio work on campus. Some of the capable members have been working with the radio staff on programs presented over KFRU, the local station. This year's president of the fraternity was Judy Haigler, vice-president was Barbara Bolan. Lee Page served as secretary-treasurer, and was succeeded by Doris Gaines. Mr. Sherman P. Lawton served as faculty sponsor.

GAINES, CHAMBERS, HAIGLER, BOLAN

Alpha Pi Epsilon

Alpha Pi Epsilon is the national honorary secretarial sorority at Stephens. Jean Hohensee was president this year and the vice-president was Bethany Huscher. Betty Raymer served as secretary and Betty Getz as treasurer. Miss Merle Gallatin was sponsor of the organization.

Alternating business and social meetings gave the members, who are chosen on the basis of a high scholastic average in all courses, a chance to broaden their interests and circle of acquaintance on campus.

The members of the Alpha Pi Epsilon sorority have done typing and dictation projects for the Burrall Office.

RAYMER, HUSCHER, HOHENSEE, GETZ

Beta Phi Gamma

Beta Phi Gamma members are the embryo journalists on campus. This fraternity was established to promote an interest in journalism, to achieve a higher type of news dissemination, and to give special recognition to outstanding journalism students on campus.

On the social side, Beta Phi Gamma entertained Alpha Epsilon Rho, the radio fraternity, and Chi Delta Phi, the creative writing fraternity, at a banquet this spring. An initiation dinner and several parties at the Collins cabin were given during the fall and spring for the Beta Phi Gamma pledges and members.

Officers of the organization were Alice Crippin, president; Pat Roberts, vice-president; and Betty Jane Bayer, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Charles W. Scarritt and Mr. C. W. Hach have served as sponsors for the group during the current year.

BAYER, CRIPPIN, ROBERTS

Chi Delta Phi

Chi Delta Phi functions to encourage writers and to raise the standard of literary material produced by students of Stephens College. Membership in the sorority honors girls who deserve recognition for outstanding work in the field.

The sorority's activities are not confined to the club itself but are of interest and benefit to every girl at Stephens the year around. Their poetry contest in the fall and the short-story contest in the spring are open to all budding literary geniuses and usually unearth a great deal of unsuspected talent. In cooperation with Theta Alpha Epsilon, Chi Delta Phi gives a Senior Vesper service once each year. The commencement issue of Stephens Standard is traditionally sponsored by Chi Delta Phi.

Because of a paper shortage, Chi Delta Phi was unable to publish the 1944 issue of "Lanterns," "Archways," and "Vineleaves." This year, however, the chapter compiled material for a two-year anthology, representing the best creative writing done by students during the school years of 1943-44 and 1944-45.

The officers of Chi Delta Phi were: President, Jan Garthwaite; vice-president, Dorothy Muns; and secretary-treasurer, Pamela Marshall. Serving as sponsors during the year were Miss Marguerite Malm and Miss Mary M. Wills.

MARSHALL, GARTHWAITE, MUNS

Delta Sigma

To give girls who are interested in science a chance to share their ideas is one of the purposes of Delta Sigma, honorary science sorority. The organization has sponsored many worthwhile projects on campus such as the bulletin board in Hickman Hall and the series of science lectures. This sorority also gave aid to the Health Council and sponsored two radio programs each week dealing with problems of scientific interest.

The social activities of the club included teas and picnics. Girls who have a high scholastic average in two or more laboratory sciences are eligible to join Delta Sigma. To maintain her membership in good standing, a girl must continue her studies in science and maintain a superior standing in her science courses.

The club was under the sponsorship of Miss Ethel Sue Lumb. The officers were: Carol Griffith, president; Ann Hunt, vice-president; Jean Fields, secretary-treasurer.

HUNT, GRIFFITH, FIELDS

Phi Theta Kappa

The largest chapter in the country is the proud boast of the Alpha chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, national junior college honorary scholastic fraternity.

Throughout the year, Phi Theta has sponsored three major projects. Working in co-operation with the senior sisters, the fraternity has been active in rewriting and distributing Compass Points, the orientation booklet for new students.

Problems of health are of vital interest to Phi Theta Kappa. Each year this organization conducts a survey to analyze the cause of any health problem which may arise on campus.

To promote the ideal of scholarship is the primary aim of Phi Theta. In connection with this goal, Phi Theta members presented talks in residence halls during scholarship week.

Officers of Phi Theta Kappa are: "Skip" Newell, president; Maryjo Suverkrup, vice-president; Barbara Embleton, secretary; Margery Imboden, treasurer; Betty Kirkbride, publicity manager; and Cleo Rogers, project chairman. Miss Elizabeth B. Stanton is the Phi Theta sponsor, and Dean Weldon P. Shofstall is co-sponsor.

Sigma Gamma Gamma

Sigma Gamma Gamma, honorary music sorority, was founded in 1923 by Dr. Basil D. Gauntlett and the music faculty. The purpose of this sorority is to develop in girls an appreciation of fine music and to give them an opportunity to hear such music. Music recitals are held every other Monday night. In these recitals, music students of the College perform. In order to become a member of Sigma Gamma Gamma, a girl must be a music major. Candidates are recommended by members of the music faculty and elected to membership by vote of the active members of the sorority.

The 1944-45 officers were: Lois La Shelle, president; Barbara Day, vice-president; Rose Mary Wallace, secretary; and Janet Goethals, treasurer. Miss M. Jeanette Hansen and Mrs. Margaret Sheldon of the music department were the sponsors.

Sigma Gamma Gamma is the oldest departmental honorary organization on campus. It has always been an active group and has contributed much to the musical appreciation of the campus as a whole.

WALLACE, GOETHALS, DAY

Tau Sigma Tau

Over twenty-four girls were elected to Tau Sigma Tau, the honorary art sorority, this year. They were recommended by their art instructors and selected by the club members on the basis of their achievements; they were not necessarily art majors. The purpose of the organization is "to honor students who have shown outstanding interest and ability in the field of art, and to help them to develop their talents; also, to render service to the campus through the medium of art."

Sketching picnics, guest speakers, and waffle breakfasts added zest to the sorority's regular activities, which included the arrangement of new library displays every two weeks. Having "live" models present at a number of the club meetings tended to help the members combine business with painting and a "good time for all."

Officers for the year were Georgia Lee Alexander, president; Margaret Helm, vice-president; Nina Thomas, secretary; Gil Underwood, treasurer; and Natalie Speer, program chairman. Mr. Robert Swan sponsored the group.

THOMAS, HELM, ALEXANDER, UNDERWOOD

Theta Alpha Epsilon

Theta Alpha Epsilon, the honorary dramatic sorority, this year made several trips to different camps to entertain soldiers. In February, members presented an all-student musical revue based upon an original script. Showing an admirable spirit of cooperation, the sorority sold Missouri University Workshop tickets on the Stephens campus, and thus helped to support the University dramatics program.

Theta Alpha fosters interest in drama by holding a contest in the spring to encourage students to write one-act plays. A scholarship is awarded to a girl on campus who shows exceptional ability and interest in the theater, and a certificate of merit is given to an outstanding drama student.

Officers for this year were: Barbara Lynde, president; Kathy Thompson, vice-president; Pat Connor, secretary; Glorinda Fisher, treasurer; Jean Chew, S. A. B. representative; Joan Xanders, publicity chairman. Mr. Cameron King was the faculty sponsor.

CHEW, LYNDE, CONNOR, FISHER, THOMPSON

MISS MAUDE ADAMS

HER dignity and lack of affectation have moulded us into one serene group who share, in common, admiration and respect for a great actress whose star did not set when her work on the stage was done.

And there will always remain with us the treasured memory of a rare gentle-woman.

—A Student Tribute

Alpha Alpha Alpha

Alpha Alpha Alpha, headed by Pat Harrold, is dedicated to achieving all of Stephens Ten Ideals, but this year friendliness and courtesy were given particular emphasis in the Tri Alpha activity program.

One social get-together and three business meetings were held each month. A banquet was given at the beginning of the year for actives and pledges and in spring a farewell party was given for the seniors by the pledges.

In addition to Pat Harrold, the officers for the year included: Nancy Ten Broeck, vice-president; Mary Jane Neal, secretary-treasurer; and Frances Eiring, project chairman. Mrs. Vera Washburne was faculty sponsor.

Beta Phi Gamma

Striking black and white pledge ribbons identify future members of Beta Phi Gamma, founded in 1932. The sorority tried this year to develop closer relationships among members and a friendly spirit toward the entire campus. The Ten Ideals serve as a constant guide.

Their activities were highlighted by skating parties, banquets, picnics at Pop Collins' Cabin, and an hilarious Kid Party, at which each member dressed to represent one of the "younger generation."

The officers of Beta Phi Gamma were Phyl Noe, president; Marion Francis, vice-president; Marty Peed, secretary-treasurer; and Dot Frost, program chairman. Miss Barbara Fischer was the faculty sponsor of the group.

Beta Sigma Beta

The rooms of one of the largest sororities on campus, Beta Sigma Beta, are located in the old part of Senior Hall, directly below the traditional Tower ghost. These spacious, attractive rooms overlook Senior Court.

Pink and silver are the club colors, while living up to the Ten Ideals is their main aim.

Showers, hayrides, marshmallow roasts, and a prophecy party prove that the Beta Sigs' can be original.

Officers for the year were: President, Nan Boughter; vice-president, Kay Gordon; secretary-treasurer, Joanne Knoll; and project chairman, Dee Schuepbach. Miss Martha Patterson served as sponsor.

Delta Chi Delta

One of the newest sororities, Delta Chi Delta, was founded in 1937. It has won a place on campus by basing its activities on the promotion of friendliness, scholarship, leadership, and democracy.

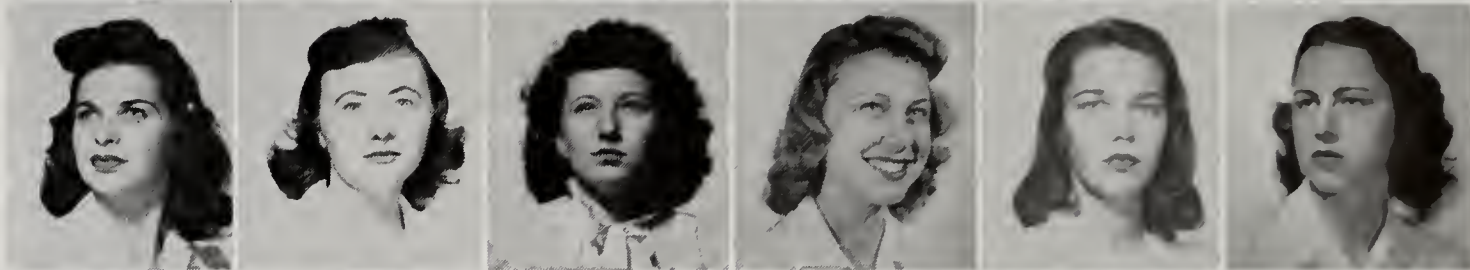

Delta Chi Delta's social calendar for the year consisted of a roller skating party and a dinner party. Several joint parties were given with other sororities.

Rosemary Irwin served as president with Beverly Sanders, vice-president; Charlotte Downard, secretary-treasurer; and Beverlee Allen, project chairman. Miss Marjorie Wells cooperated with the group as faculty sponsor.

Delta Rho Alpha

Delta Rho Alpha, one of the oldest sororities on the Stephens campus, attempts to exemplify the Ten Ideals of Stephens through a spirit of friendly cooperation.

The goal of Delta Rho Alpha is unity and its motto is friendliness. An attitude of service and willing cooperation in sorority and campus projects is also encouraged as well as loyalty to the ideals of the sorority and to high standards of scholarship.

Jane Buchfinck headed the sorority this year. Other officers were Sybil Duffy, vice-president; Marcia Fahey, secretary-treasurer; and Jan Greaves, project chairman. Mrs. Sara Ann Fay served as sponsor for the year.

Eta Epsilon Gamma

Friendly laughter bursting forth from the tower room on second floor of Senior proclaims to all passersby that the Gamma girls are having a session. Eta Epsilon Gamma is the official name of this sorority, which boasts a membership of sixty-nine girls, all of whom carry on the spirit of friendliness, which is the password of the Gammas.

In cooperation with Pan Hellenic decision, sororities abolished the traditional Hell Day, crazy costumes, and hectic hazing this year. To take the place of this annual day of punishment, Eta Epsilon Gamma cooperated with the rest of the sororities in contributing to the Red Cross, buying War Bonds, and aiding the milk fund.

Presiding as president of the Gammas is Sally Smith. Nancy Adams is vice-president and Sarah Aldridge and Lucile Thorn are treasurer and project chairman, respectively. Miss Elizabeth Hilts served as faculty sponsor.

Gamma Delta Phi

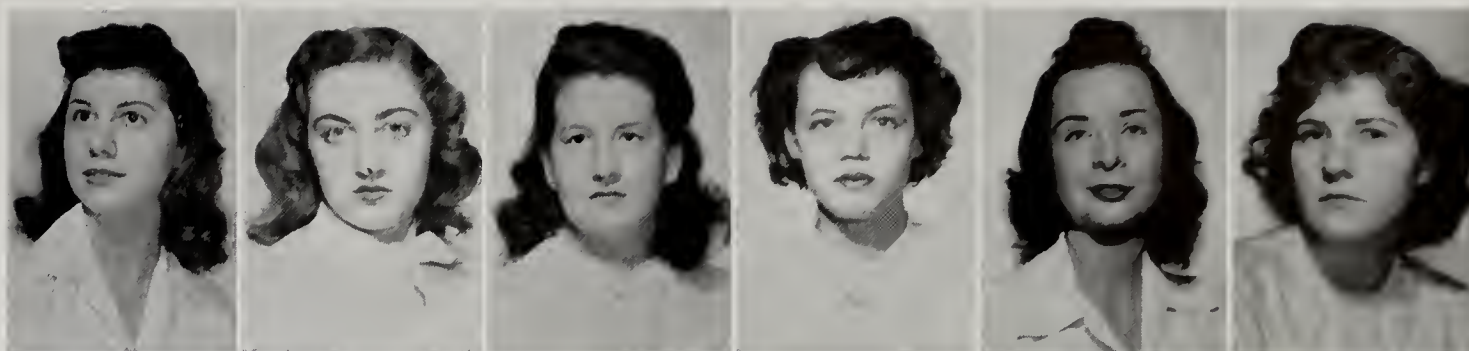

With Mary Jane Rugel as president, Gamma Delta Phi, had a busy, but enjoyable year. Each member of this sorority was urged to take on a project and the new members were especially enthusiastic about their social service activities.

Miss Lou Williams, faculty sponsor, worked cooperatively with the student officers who, in addition to Mary Jane Rugel, included: Violeta Andrade, vice-president; Barbara Hetland, secretary-treasurer; and Rosanne Singleton, project chairman.

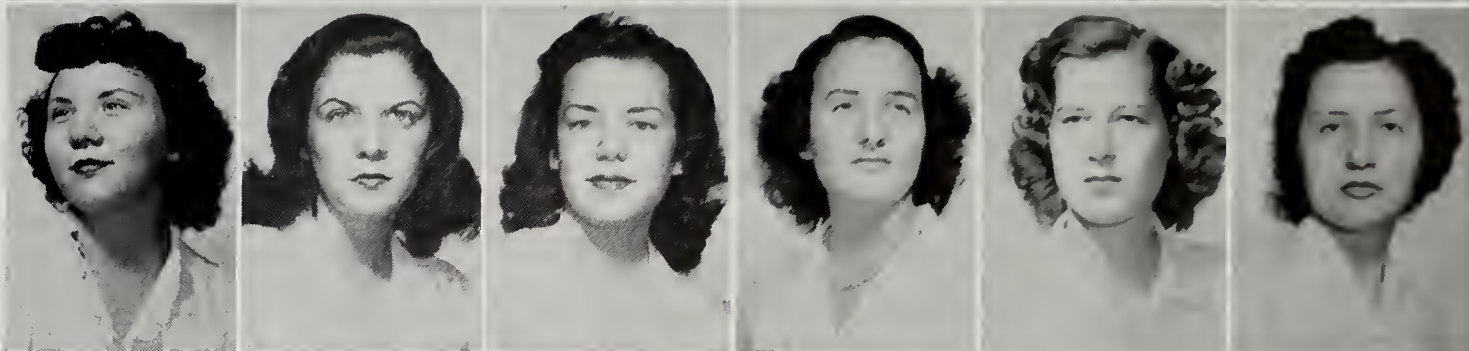

As social activities the "Gamma Delts" enjoyed formal dinners, picnics, a Valentine party, bunking parties and a joint social meeting with Omega Psi.

The main objectives of the Gamma Delta Phi for this year were to promote friendship among girls all over campus, to participate in school activities as a group, and thereby to create both school spirit and sorority spirit.

Kappa Alpha Phi

Helen Sporry, president of the Kappa Alpha Phi, guided the sorority through one of its most purposive and fun-filled years. One of the first social activities enjoyed by the club, was the banquet given by the pledges for the actives. Later on, the members attended breakfasts at the Country Club on Sunday morning and then went to Burrall in a group. Parties were also given with the Sigmas, a sister sorority, and with the Beta Sigma Beta's.

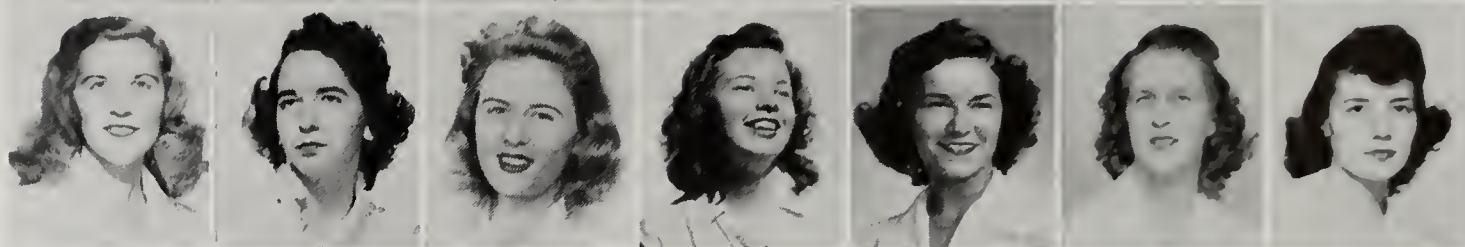

The sorority emphasizes the value of scholarship. The club colors are orchid, bronze, and straw. These stand for beauty, friendship, and democracy.

Other officers of the club are "Beegie" Knight, vice-president; Ruth Dryer, secretary-treasurer; Faith Riach, project chairman; and Miss Georgiann Partridge, faculty sponsor.

Omega Psi

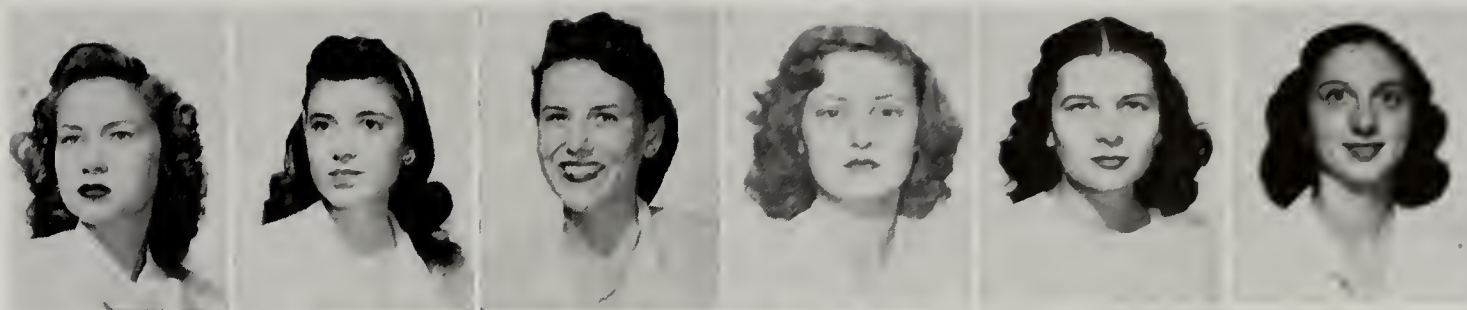

Boasting a roll call of fifty-two members, Omega Psi can speak proudly of the work its members have done this year. Instead of the entire sorority conducting a project, each girl has had her separate project and thus, the sorority has accomplished a great deal in a variety of fields. Some girls have taught Sunday School and others have done nursery school work, but in all cases they have tried to help in some cooperative community effort.

The officers of Omega Psi were: President, Mary Ann Brandon; vice-president, Paula Unger; secretary-treasurer, Marianne Fenn; and project chairman, Katherine Stoehr.

Omega Psi's sponsor is Miss Arlene Shoemaker.

Phi Lambda Beta

Phi Lambda Beta is a sorority which stresses friendliness, not just among girls in the sorority, but among girls all over the campus. To carry out this idea, the sorority rooms in Senior Hall are kept open every Saturday night in order that the members may come and relax with friends and enjoy informal get-togethers.

An alumni letter was sent out by Phi Lambda Beta again this year. This letter explained all the activities and purposes of the club to former members. To encourage scholarship and loyalty, the sorority each year gives an award to the most outstanding Junior and Senior members.

Activities were also shared with Phi Lambda Beta's sister sorority, Tri Alpha. In the winter months, the annual pledge-active banquet was sponsored by the seniors. In "turnabout" fashion, the juniors entertained the graduating seniors at a farewell banquet in the spring. Officers of the club this year were: President, Helen Aycock; vice-president, Dolly Chudik; secretary-treasurer, Marion Henson; project chairman, Betty Watson; scholarship chairman, Marcia Meyers; and sponsor, Miss Elizabeth Chinn.

Phi Phi Phi

Phi Phi Phi, the largest sorority on campus, was founded in 1924. Since then, it has played its part in upholding the standards and ideals of Stephens.

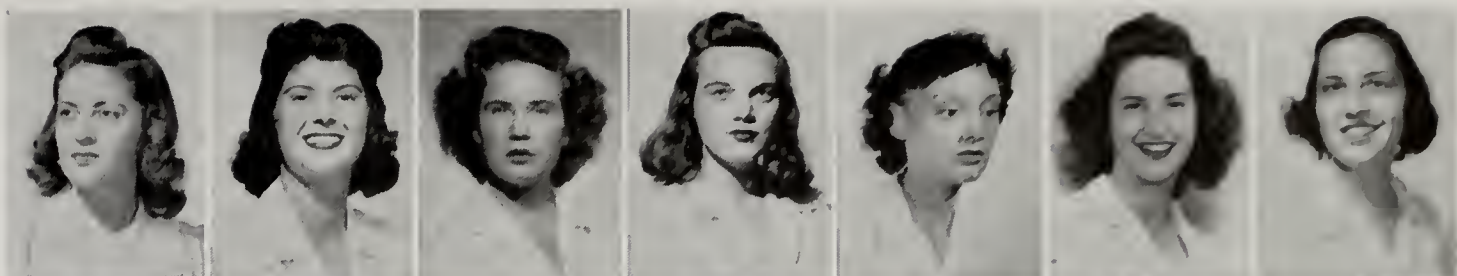

The main ideals stressed by Tri Phi are high standards of scholarship, good citizenship, honesty in work and deed, appreciation of the beautiful, and reverence toward the spiritual. Tri Phi also attempts to emphasize the value of sisterhood and a well-rounded social life.

Mary Kay DeWitt heads the sorority with Peg Markin, vice-president; Elizabeth Holabird, secretary; Betty Purinton, treasurer; and Elizabeth Kamensky, project chairman. Mrs. Earl Deimund served as Tri Phi sponsor this year.

This year the Psi Chi's have worked to achieve closer companionship among their members. . Their program for the year was based upon an expedient, effective combination of group work and individual responsibility.

Many hours were spent by the members doing nurses' aide work, serving hot lunches, assisting at the nursery schools, and helping in Burrall office work.

Psi Chi Omicron officers for this year were: Wanda Shaw, president; Pat Nippe, vice-president; Virginia Frazier, secretary; Rosemary O'Donnell, project chairman; and Miss Aune Toivola, faculty sponsor.

Sigma Alpha Chi

The gay colors of yellow and lavender signify Sigma Alpha Chi, formerly a chapter of the national organization, Sigma Iota Chi, and one of the oldest sororities on campus.

The Sigmas are active socially; their affairs, in addition to the traditional dinners for pledges and actives, included Lela Raney Wood get-togethers and parties at Pop Collins Cabin.

Friendliness and scholarship are their main aims, while an Honor Roll, prominently posted in the sorority room gives credit to deserving members. A special effort was made this year to make members of the group well acquainted with one another.

Officers were Gwen Mitchell, president; Ann Athens, vice-president; Virginia Duling, secretary-treasurer; and Bernice Augustine, project chairman. During the second semester, Virginia Duling served as president. Miss Elinor O'Keefe sponsored the group.

Theta Tau Omega

This year the girls of Theta Tau Omega chose volunteer work for their war project. Some worked in the nursery schools repairing books and toys. Others assisted in different service projects.

The sorority varied its usual business meetings in Walter Hall by playing bridge on Thursday evening, thus combining recreation with the more serious business of the year.

The officers for the 1944-45 school year were: Peggy Barfield, president; Patricia Connor, vice-president; Betty Edson, secretary-treasurer; Lillian King, project chairman. Miss Martha Kiser served as faculty sponsor.

Zeta Mu Alpha

Zeta Mu Alpha was one of the first sororities to be organized at Stephens. Stressing citizenship, scholarship, and friendship in its activities, Zeta Mu Alpha annually awards a cup to a pledge most outstanding in these qualities and showing unusual participation in sorority activities.

This year, each member worked for several hours a month on one of the Burrall service projects. Margaret Faast acted as the sorority's project chairman.

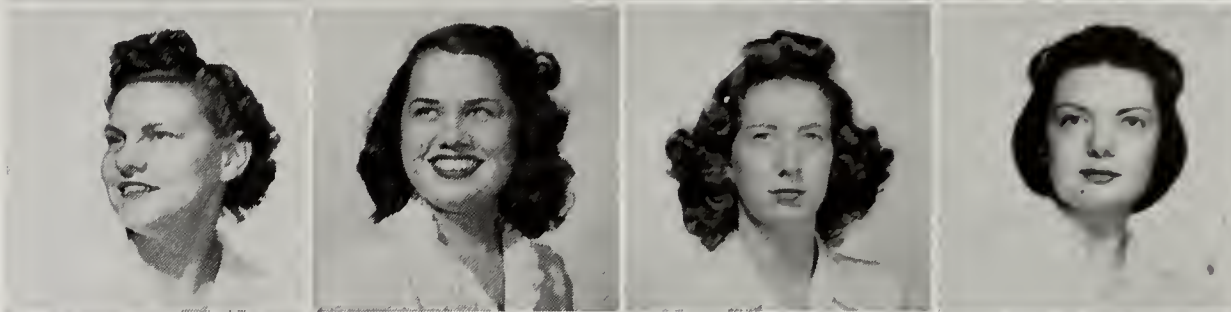

The sorority program also has its lighter moments. Early in the year, Zeta Mu Alpha gives a party for its pledges. Later, the pledges "turn about" and entertain the actives. The annual spring party is a more informal affair, which usually takes the form of a picnic.

During the year, 1944-1945, Blanche Shore was president of Zeta Mu Alpha, with Phyllis Harrison as vice-president; Eleanor Mead, secretary-treasurer; and Margaret Faast, project chairman. Mrs. Mary Wideman sponsored the sorority.

Scholarship Committee

Three years ago a group of faculty members and students met to discuss the problem of better scholarship and decided to organize a scholarship committee, composed of one representative from each hall, to help promote good scholarship on campus. Miss Mary Bigelow, a member of the original committee, and Miss Eleanor Norton, served as faculty co-sponsors, with Sally Shuttleworth, chairman, and Pam Jensen, secretary.

Proper study conditions, efficient methods of work, the importance of learning to the full extent of our daily opportunity, attitudes and incentives, and other related topics were considered by the group. Their suggestions were brought back to the halls where improved study plans were set in motion. Scholarship Week served as a reminder to each student to do her best in the new term.

As a special project this year the committee worked on a new honor roll which will give credit to the "all-around" girl instead of relying solely upon class grades.

Personal Appearance Committee

In order to acquire the personal assurance and poise that are fast becoming a part of "The Stephens Look," President Wood this year brought to the campus Miss Muriel King, one of America's leading fashion designers. Miss King now is the director of the Fine and Applied Fashion department which offers a program of courses in Personal Appearance, Clothing and Fashion Design, taught by Miss Mauri Helda, Mrs. Patricia Hungerland, and Mrs. Patricia Rowe.

Mrs. Hungerland represents Miss King as coordinating chairman of the staff in the latter's absence. Mrs. Hungerland thoroughly believes in the idea that Stephens girls should be neat and trim in appearance at all times and should not mistake "dowdiness for distinctiveness."

With the addition of many new staff members to the Fine and Applied Fashion department, new classrooms, offices, and consulting rooms were made available, where more specific and individual attention could be given each girl.

"Since fashion means applied intelligence, and also a vast amount of critical discrimination," says Mrs. Hungerland, "the girl with the Stephens Look will have a mark of culture and refinement under all circumstances and in all places."

Health Council

"Know Your Blood" and "Watch Your Weight" were two of the many campus-wide programs carried out this year by the Health Council, which is composed of one representative from each residence hall. This group is in charge of all campus health activities and acts as a connecting link between the Stephens Health Center and the student body.

Each month a new project is undertaken and an authority on the subject speaks at open meetings. The selling of tuberculosis seals at Christmas time, the distribution of booklets on "Campus Health Practices," and an address by Dr. Lois Boulware, physician to women at the University of Iowa, were also included in the year's events.

The board works in cooperation with the Stephens Recreation Association in planning recreational programs with an emphasis on good health. Whenever necessary, the members help by enforcing health rules.

Officers for the year were: President, Frances Dimmock, who was succeeded by Marcie Mobley, vice-president; Beth Carney, secretary-treasurer; and Arlee Vermillion, program chairman. Co-sponsors of the group were Mrs. Reva P. Vaughan and Dr. L. M. Folkers.

Nurses' Aides

Stephens, the first school in the Middle West to offer Red Cross Nurses' Aide Training, has successfully carried out its program for the past few winters. Fifty-seven girls served as volunteers this year at the Boone County and Noyes Hospitals. In order to be accepted for training each student had to fulfill the requirements of scholarship, leadership, and fitness.

All of the Aides are members of the Nurses' Aide Club, which tries to stimulate cooperation and friendliness among the group. Officers were Ramona White, president; Natalie Gustavson, vice-president; and Phyllis Harris, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Jewell Somerville served as faculty sponsor.

In the past year, Stephens College students have had an opportunity to hear five outstanding personalities interpret and analyze some of the major issues of the war. The Foreign Relations Club in its seventh annual lecture series has brought to Columbia: Dr. B. A. Liu, speaking on China; Count Byron de Prorok and Dr. Syud Hossain, debating the question: "Should India Have Her Independence Now?"; Dorothy Thompson, interpreting the news of the moment as she saw it; and Maurice Hindus, discussing modern Russia.

The Foreign Relations Club has grown in seven years from a small group of girls who gathered in a dormitory room to discuss the news of the week over a Sunday night snack of milk and sandwiches to its present size and importance as a highly significant Stephens campus activity. Its purpose is to make students aware of the importance of current events. This is accomplished through the lecture series and by means of discussions led by guest speakers from the University and Stephens faculties at the club's bi-weekly meetings. International Peace, the Dumbarton Oaks conference, and the future of the Good Neighbor Policy have been discussed as outstanding topics in current history.

The officers for 1944-45 were Lera Robling, president; Lola Stewart, vice-president; Helena Hurst, secretary-treasurer; Genie Kilcup, publicity committee chairman; and Noanie Bee Morrison and Betty Witte, promotion directors. Mr. John A. Decker sponsored the club.

SHAW, MCCLURE, WHITE

The Aviation Club has two principal objectives: first, to promote air-mindedness at Stephens, and second, to bring to the campus prominent figures in the field to give students an understanding of the role of aviation in the world of the future. In meetings, held every Monday night at 7:30, those interested in aviation presented panel discussions. Suggestions were also made for the project bulletin board in Hickman Arch. The 1944-45 officers were: Sue McClure, president; Jeanne Coffey, vice-president; Patty White, secretary-treasurer; Mary Gill Rayburn, publicity manager; Peggy Shaw, parliamentarian. The faculty sponsor was Miss Eugenia Voss.

This club, originated in Texas University, is an organization for sons and daughters of people in service. The only chapters in the United States are found at Texas University, Penn Hall, University of Louisiana, and Stephens College. This year the Brats, dressed in colorful club uniforms, took charge of the decorations and taxi dances for the War Bond Rally. Also intense rivalry was displayed during the broadcast of the Army-Navy game. Col. Stephanie Doherty is president of the club, Lt. Col. Ruth Rice holds the position of vice-president, and Major Janet Glithero performs the duties of secretary-treasurer. Mr. P. Donchian is faculty sponsor of the club.

REED

Creating a library of autographed books is the work of the Book Club, established in 1935 for the purpose of providing students with a library of popular books. At that time such books were not available in sufficient numbers to satisfy the reading demands.

This year's thirteen members had as their WPO project the building of a scrapbook of favorite poems, which upon completion was to be presented to a servicemen's rehabilitation center. A breakfast at the Country Club, during which Mr. Chisholm spoke on Semantics, was among the activities enjoyed by the 1945 members.

Carmencita

RUSSEY

As girls interested in the Spanish-speaking people and in their language, the members of Carmencita are given an opportunity to hear and practice speaking the Spanish language, and to learn about the customs of Spain and the Latin-American countries.

Throughout the school year, a number of stimulating and informative programs were held which featured Spanish dances, skits, moving pictures, and many other interesting novelties.

Officers this year were Eileen Garner, president; Betty Russey, vice-president; and Betty Mohler, secretary-treasurer. Faculty sponsor was Miss Johnnie Allison.

French Club

Vive la France! With the heroic liberation of France, interest in the French Club has definitely increased, and membership has become even more of a privilege. The club carries on its program for the benefit and enjoyment of all girls interested in the French language and subjects pertaining to France. Its officers this year were Marion Peter, president; Pamela Marshall, vice-president; Mary Jane Beaghlér, secretary; Joyce Dillinder, treasurer; Barbara Hallis, social chairman; and Nancy Beebe, publicity chairman. Mme. Bilsborough was faculty sponsor.

A meeting of the entire club is held once a month. During these meetings various programs concerned with France and her language are presented. At meetings, members of the club converse only in French; this experience gives the members invaluable aid in correct pronunciation and ease in speaking.

French movies presented in the cinema laboratory are sponsored by the French Club. These afford an excellent opportunity for students to become acquainted with French life and customs.

German Club

MAJOR, MORRISON, SIMPSON

More than ever this year, students on the Stephens campus were war-conscious. Realizing the need that would arise after the war, German Club members were eager to learn the language and traditions of the German people.

In addition to meeting twice a month, they sponsored a coffee hour every Wednesday afternoon to which everyone who wished to come was invited. At each meeting a faculty member was invited to speak on the traditions and folklore of the German people. The members sang traditional songs of old Germany, including Christmas carols.

This year the club was under the sponsorship of Mr. George Scherer. Officers for the year were: President, Dorothy Major; vice-president, Patricia Ziemer; secretary, "Bunny" Fenn; and treasurer, Frances Martyn.

Home-making and the relationship between the home and the community are the main interests of the Homarts Club. The program this year included a turkey-carving demonstration by Mr. Russell Green and, at Christmas, a demonstration of how to plan a child's party. The sponsor, Miss Martha Kiser, and other faculty members of the Home and Family Division participated in the club's activities. Under the direction of Miss Marjorie Momyer is the "Sitters Club," the W.P.O. project of Homarts. The officers were Natalie Gustavson, president; Betty Dondineau, vice-president; Jean Wiegand, secretary; Peggy Douglas, treasurer; and Harriett Erhart, publicity chairman.

Hypatia Hexagon

The first club organized at Stephens was Hypatia Hexagon, the mathematics club. Any girl who has had or is taking a mathematics course is eligible for membership. Programs presenting practical and useful information about mathematics were enjoyed by the club's twenty members throughout the year. Hypatia Hexagon's 1945 officers were Ellen Anderson, president; Marjorie Meyer, vice-president; Letitia Evans, secretary-treasurer; and Edythe Link, program chairman. The faculty sponsor was Miss Edith F. Whitmer.

The Guild has set up and equipped, down to the last piece of furniture, a new music library in the Conservatory Annex. The library also contains a listening room and a constantly growing collection of recordings. Sunday afternoon concerts, presenting music majors, and weekly broadcasts of recorded music over KTX are sponsored by the club. At Christmas time, the club carols "en masse" at faculty homes. The officers for the year were Pat Pierce, president; Rosalie Skidmore, vice-president; Mary Lou Roemheld, secretary; Marian Bixby, treasurer. Miss Mary Jane Hantz served as faculty sponsor. Two artists featured in the symphony concert series, Annamary Dickey and Patricia Travers, were made honorary members.

Imagine a club being started by a girl falling off a horse! Way back in 1926, the Prince of Wales Club, whose original charter was signed by Will Rogers, admitted to membership only girls who are been "involuntarily dismounted." Now, however, in order to join the club, one must pass a written test plus a riding, saddling, and bridling test. The program for the year includes rides, tantalizing "feeds," horse shows, and regular meetings at which prominent authorities are invited to speak. Officers for the year were Eleanor Kilgore, president; Joanne McKim, vice-president; Betty Bergman, treasurer; and Redda Wilkinson, secretary. Faculty sponsor was Miss Annie M. Lawson.

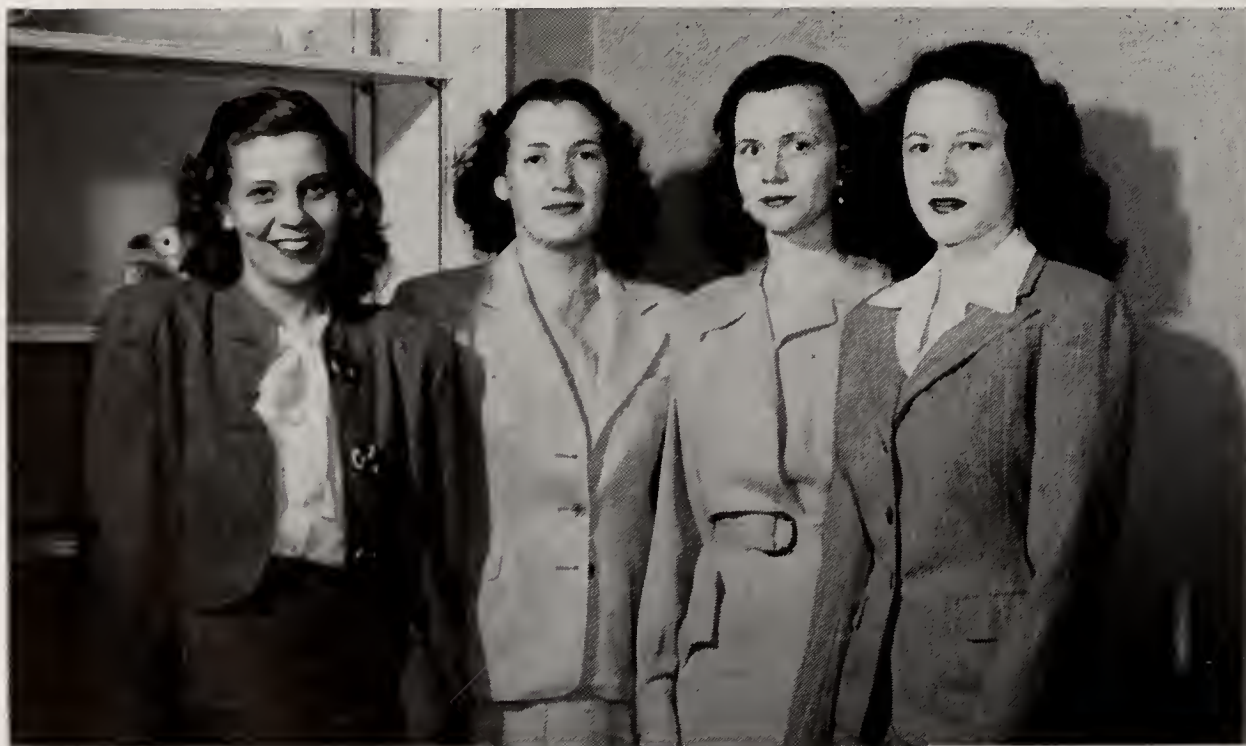

Rostrum Club

SHERRILL, BERRY, BERGLUND,
HENEGAR

The sixty-eight members who compose Rostrum have one of the busiest programs on campus. Leading the group is Ruth Berry, president; Sarah Sherrill, vice-president; Pat Berglund, secretary; and Pat Henegar, treasurer. Rostrum meets twice a month under the sponsorship of Miss Margaret Wood and Mr. Dave Phillips, members of the Division of Communications. Again this year, Rostrum's major project was Victory Speaking. In this work, the club is affiliated with the state and national organizations. Hall meetings, convocations, KTX, KFRU, sorority meetings, and club meetings were a few places available for volunteer speakers. The club's outstanding social function in the spring is a banquet given in honor of the Victory Speakers at which the pins and certificates are awarded and the officers for the following year installed.

The Secretarial Club not only brings to the campus interesting and worthwhile speakers, but it also gives the members a chance to widen their acquaintances and to develop the poise needed for a business career. Four out-of-town speakers were presented this year. The club's social program included such activities as Waffle Suppers and picnics. Through W.P.O., the Secretarial Club did typing, mimeographing, and filing in connection with various war projects. Officers were Patricia Ventura, president; Jean Bumgardner, vice-president; Joyce Saunders, treasurer; and Joanne Jeffery, secretary. Miss Estelle White was the sponsor.

Stephens League

BELL, STEWART

Stephens League of Women Voters had one of its best years. It has demonstrated its major purposes "by doing"—the purpose of promoting good citizenship on campus. At the time of the national election in the fall, Stephens League sponsored a "straw ballot" on the campus. Directed by Mary Bell, president of the League, this project, with its posters, banners, speeches, and rallies, enabled all the students to participate in the national election.

In the Social problems department all the instructors devoted their first unit to "Democratic Process," in which they discussed the platform and record of each party. At a required convocation there was much party spirit shown when Mr. H. P. Baker, Mr. D. C. Smucker, and Mr. Wm. H. Form presented campaign talks for the Republican, Democratic, and Socialist candidates.

In the League itself, all the major issues up before Congress were studied. The Dumbarton Oaks plan for international organization and the Bretonwood Intermonetary Conference were studied thoroughly and explained in detail.

Mary Stewart was vice-president of the League this year, and Jane Hardin was secretary-treasurer. Mr. Robert Carson and Mr. Howard Baker, co-sponsors, also guided the League by making a study of community affairs which included a visit to a meeting of the Columbia city council.

Some three years ago a new club made its appearance on campus. It was the Writers Club, organized under the sponsorship of Chi Delta Phi, honorary creative writing sorority with membership open to all Juniors interested in writing.

The club's project for this year was the publication of Maelstrom, a magazine designed to give girls the experience necessary for later work on Stephens Standard or Stephens Life.

The president for this year was Anne Neisen. Mary Malone was vice-president and Margaret Bollinger was business manager. Eleanor Sibley acted as secretary and Mr. Kenneth Berry served as the club's faculty sponsor.

Retrospect of

Now that we're leaving Stephens, we look back over the year, trying to memorize all the little things we don't want to forget.

President Wood was nice to us . . . Some nights, after we had crammed for tests and rushed to meetings until we were contemplating a rest at the health center, we heard a sudden burst of screaming from the halls. "STOP DAY!" We screamed, too. "For he's a jolly good fellow . . ."

Remember thinking out problems in the dimly lit auditorium . . . listening to soft music? And Burrall on Sundays . . . White Sundays and Can Sunday . . .?

Then there were the green ribbons. One night there was a big barbecue at the lake . . . white-clad chefs guarding barbecue pits . . . bus boys running from pits to tables with sizzling barbecued beef and pork . . . entertainment while we ate. The big moment of the evening came when the bonfire was lighted and juniors threw their ribbons in . . . full-fledged Suzies!

Dean Prunty displayed true genius when he got us dates for our big dances. We wrote home, "I had a blind date, but everybody else had a good time!" We did have fun anyway!

Sorority rushing . . . girls dressed in their best . . . actives as nervous as rushees. But in a few weeks they were sisters.

Who could forget the post office? We spent half of our lives at Stephens standing by our boxes, wishing. Busy hours in the P. O. were worse than a fire sale, but we always managed to reach our boxes!

With the first snow, we began singing "White Christmas" in the blue rooms, and a sign in the window over the P. O. stairs announced the number of days till vacation. (We counted them ourselves to make sure, though). Soon we were packing . . . What clothes could we possibly leave here? The Wabash was late, but we finally got home! We thought we'd never get enough of sleeping late and eating home-cooked food, but when we did get back, it was good to see our pals again.

The faculty show broke that after-vacation let-down, bringing the Russian ballet, a Paris style show, Cuban and Egyptian dances right to our own auditorium. "Three hundred and seventy-five laughs in ninety minutes," the faculty advertised, but they underestimated the number.

There were Burrall concerts, plays, lectures and election campaigns to keep us busy, and before we knew it the warm weather came . . . trees were budding and the sun shone. Sun decks opened and we started our summer tans the hard way . . . with a good sunburn. People hurried around campus carrying tennis racquets or golf clubs. When spring rest came, the campus overflowed with visiting parents. We slept and wasted time and slept some more.

Then the Ivy Fete and commencement week . . .

Time to pack clothes again! Everyone was trying to finish work; the Swap Shop was crowded. Coupled with our happiness at the prospect of going home, there was a feeling of sadness . . . we were leaving Stephens . . .

It's been fun, this year at Stephens, hasn't it? One of those years to memorize!

Editor's Note: This list of seniors' activities has been collected by the staff at the urgent request of interested students on campus. The activity lists available in the extra-class office were used as the source for most of the data. The editors are aware of the fact that many errors occur in the list, but are presenting it here, even with its inaccuracies, rather than omitting it altogether.

HERE IS COURAGE HERE, TOO

No medals, but sincerest congratulations to you who have had the courage to fight through overwhelming discouragements to produce and finance a yearbook in this year of 1945!

You needed no compulsion but your own determination to hold on to this one phase of American college life, to preserve it for those who might have been here to take part in it and who will be glad you had the grit to carry on.

This is the kind of courage we admire as much as any other. And we are glad we have been able to help you, as much as we could, "to build with broken tools" this chronicle of student and faculty life.

Buy more War Bonds = A quicker Victory

...or welcoming a War Bond salesman

Our fighting men are fighting for our way of life, for everything we treasure as American. You can put your dollars in that fight—BY INVESTING IN WAR BONDS. Your dollars will provide the tools for Victory. And there's no safer place for your money. Don't wait for someone to call on you. Go out and buy War Bonds and keep them. If a volunteer salesman of War Bonds drops in at your house, give him the welcome he deserves. Be sure and sign up for as much in War Bonds as you can. You'll always be glad you did.

Natty:
I've really enjoyed being with you in social problems and especially carrectives. Stay sweet.
Love ya.

Nene I thought we'd be wearing caps and gloves at the same time. Some place did we? It's really been super
No matter how long you stay with me!
I'll miss you when you go. Love the girls in the choir. Love hair with you. Love

Dear Dottie,

you're a swell gal from a swell state! Course the rooming didn't work out, but I think you're a "peck" and I love you too! These notes in the "joke" were fun weren't they? One way of communication!! Hope I get to see you in Atlanta this summer!! If you're ever in Alabama come on down to see me -

Lots of love, love etc.,

Margaret Mitchell.

To Dottie -
a wonderful memory of a wonderful year.
Thanks, love, for everything for helping to make this year so much fun and for being so swell yourself. Best wishes and good luck - always -
Rikki

Dearest Dottie

It really has been just wonderful knowing you this year. I'll never forget what good times we've had together, and we'll have lots more of them next year. Be real sure to come to old St. L. and visit us real real often. Don't forget your California friend, and big pal in geometry.
Lots of Love
Susy

Dear Dotty,

It's been swell
knowing you this year and I hope to see you around next year. Best of everything for you

Love,
Alice Woodruff

Dearest -
I have one small job and the rest, as you are busy with this year and I am sure you will not mind me asking for a small sum of money for the same.

May 26 -

Dear Dotty,

I know I will see you again
next year, so this isn't really goodbye.
It has been so much fun - starting last summer.

You'll never know how much
I like the Rayburn family. The why.

I hope you have enjoyed being here at Stephens and loved it as much as we have loved having you here.

Will, Maria hoping I see you
real soon.

Lato & Lane,
Dorothy

di!

Well? Somebody has to be on the last page!
I do hope your parents read this cuz I think maybe I'll need a little support in persuading you to visit me this summer. you know — after we see the sights in good ole' Washington, D.C.
we can go tripping up to New York to see Mary Lou — (another "sight" — for sure eyes I mean!!) It would be loads of fun Hottie + I do want you to come so much so please plan on it, heeee?

Write often,
Love you lots.
